Sorensen Says JFK Heartened

RESPONSE TO MESSAGE PLEASES PRESIDENT

THEODORE C. SORENSEN

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy was described Friday as heartened by the response Congress gave to his State of the Union message and as confident that he is going to have a good year.

Theodore C. Sorensen, a former Lincolnite who is Kennedy's intimate friend and closest official adviser, said also the President felt gratified but exhausted after his 50-minute speech and the preparation that went into it.

In a taped TV interview at the White House, Sorensen said Kennedy considers his drive for sweeping new authority to negotiate tariff cuts to be his most important program "in foreign affairs and to the country as a whole."

"That is going to open up a whole new relationship with the Atlantic community and with the world at large," said Sorensen, the President's special counsel.

Aged Aid High

He said Kennedy regards health insurance for the aged under the social security system as the program of utmost importance on the domestic side.

Sorensen, who has been an aide and confidant to Kennedy since 1953, said that one year in the White House has changed the young President very little.

"He still has the same energy, determination," Sorensen reported. "He still is able to smile at some of these vicissitudes—take a long-range look."

The greatest source or satisfaction to Kennedy has been the maintenance of peace without any loss of national security, Sorensen said. He said the year began with a crisis in Laos, an explosive situation in the Congo and a "time-bomb ticking away in Berlin."

As the year advanced there were even greater chances of involvement in war or loss of security, Sorensen said, because of the threat to the United Nations after the death of its secretary-general, Dag Hammarskjold, and because of deteriorating U.S. relations with Latin America and the prospect that communism would spread there.

Continual Crises

From inauguration day on, Sorensen said, Kennedy has been working with crises but "in not a single one of them has war broken out, nor has our security been diminished." He added:

"There is a lot more to do, but I think that is where he gets the most satisfaction out of last year, because the President is a man of peace."

Sorensen rejected the idea that Kennedy's trade and tariff program can wait for a year while the public and Congress are "educated" to the idea. He said the trade agreements act expires at midyear, the European market is making swift strides, and American industry knows that it will have to move plants and jobs to Europe if it cannot penetrate Europe's markets through the export trade.

"The communists aren't waiting for next year in their economic offensive, and I think we have to do it this year," the presidential adviser said.

He also rejected the suggestion that Kennedy has no "grand design" but works merely on a day-to-day strategy. Thursday's address itself refutes that notion, Sorensen said.

Foreign Trade Discussed

Foreign trade promises to be as important and controversial an issue as Congress will face this year. Significant aspects of this issue will be discussed in a series of two articles by Congressional Quarterly appearing today and Monday morning on the editorial page.

A regular page 4 feature, Drew Pearson will be found today on Page 6 and Columnist Doris Fleeson will be found on Page 2.

Miller Slashes Foreign Policy

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Oklahoma City — Republican National Chairman William Miller Friday night slashed at the basic tenets of Kennedy administration foreign policy around the globe.

He said a coalition government in Laos "will become a Communist government."

He declared that in Berlin the U.S. "should have torn down the Communist wall brick by brick as it was being built."

He called for a congressional investigation of U.S. policy in the Congo, particularly with respect to Katanga.

Urges 'New Look'

He urged the U.S. to "take a whole new look at the charter" before acting on the purchase of $100 million in United Nations bonds.

He criticized the call to active duty of reservists last fall, and attacked administration policy on Cuba and Angola.

"It is time to stop mistaking style for strength, and golden rhetoric for solid accomplishment," Miller declared.

"The central purpose of our policy ought to be victory in the cold war."

Miller spoke to a cheering dinner audience of Republican National Committee members.

'Colossal Nerve'

The GOP chairman said that President Kennedy displayed "colossal nerve" in his State of the Union requests for stand-by tax reduction and public works spending authority.

"What deadly gadgets to use in election years," he declared.

Miller called for the election of a Republican House of Representatives in 1962 and GOP Senate gains "before it is too late."

Constitutional government, he said, "will be destroyed from within unless the vast majority of Americans wake up to the fact that the Democratic welfare state will destroy its fundamental fiber."

A heavy snow and high wind alert has been issued by the weather bureau for east and central Nebraska Saturday.

While Lincoln is not affected by the alert, the Capital City will receive snow and accompanying winds beginning Saturday night.

Snow and winds are forecast for all the state Saturday and Saturday night.

Highs will range between 30 degrees in central Nebraska to 35 to 40 degrees in the Panhandle and eastern zones.

The state high Friday was 45 at Chadron. The state low was 3 at Scottsbluff. Lincoln's high was 41 with a low of 26.

PENNSY AND NYC READY FOR MERGER

–Economy Hurt–

Oran Hit By Mass Layoffs

Oran, Algeria (AP) — Authorities took stock of Oran's crumbling economy Friday and saw no prospect for halting unemployment and the flight of capital in Algeria's second city, where the French administration has lost control to French extremists opposing President de Gaulle.

An estimated 20,000 Moslems of the normal working force of 40,000 were laid off by European employers in the past 3 weeks, or refused to venture into the European quarters to earn their living.

Hunger demonstrations were reported in Moslem areas cordoned off by troops and surrounded by barbed wire.

Black Future

Despite European crowds chanting slogans of faith in continuation of French rule in Algeria, most merchants and industrialists see the future as black.

Almost all private construction has stopped and the government housing budget for 1962 was cut by 35%.

Sales of household machines and equipment dropped more than 60%. Textiles were even more affected.

Production Off

Authorities estimate the Oran area's industrial production has dropped 35 to 40% since Moslem terrorist attacks unleashed a wave of European reprisals last fall.

Each week an average of 4 industrial firms transfers operations to France.

"Who can make plans in this hell?" bitterly comlained the head of one company.

Forced To Pay

All merchants and industrial firms are forced to contribute to the rightist organization fighting de Gaulle — the European Secret Army Organization, whose monthly revenue in this city is estimated unofficially at two million new francs or $400,000.

Small shopkeepers pay around $50 a month. Doctors dentists and lawyers pay $100. Commercial firms are taxed according to the volume of business. All of them pay, for fear of having business or apartment blown up by plastic bombs.

Many French settlers are leaving the city. The administration says about 40,000 have left western Algeria since Oct. 1, or roughly 10%. Oran has a European population of 200,000 and about 200,000 others live in smaller towns of western Algeria.

Schools May Increase Courses In Economics

By WOODY HOWE
Star Staff Writer

Principles of economics, particularly of the free enterprise system, might be given broader emphasis in Lincoln public schools next fall.

Plans are being made to establish a teachers study committee on economic instruction this spring, Dr. R. L. Fredstrom revealed Friday.

Prior to this committee's meetings, Dr. Fredstrom, who is assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, and William B. Bogar, principal of Lincoln High School, will attend an economics education workshop in Denver, Colo.

The workshop will be held Jan. 24. It is sponsored jointly by the New York Stock Exchange and the Sears Roebuck Foundation.

The school men expect to return with new ideas on the teaching of free enterprise economics for the committee to examine.

One Course

Lincoln schools now offer a one-semester course on basic economic principles. It is an elective course for 12th grade students.

Bogar said as many as 60 students at Lincoln High have been enrolled in this course at one time.

In addition to the formal course, economics is examined in courses such as American history, modern problems and business law.

Dr. Fredstrom suggested that some consideration be given to extending the study of the free enterprise system to social studies classes in lower grades, perhaps even on the elementary level.

Urge Foreign Diplomats To Respect U.S. Laws

. . . DESPITE IMMUNITY

Washington (AP) — The State Department publicly advised foreign diplomats Friday that they are expected to respect U.S. laws, including traffic laws, in spite of the diplomatic immunity which shields them from arrest.

The advice, designed also as reassurance to the Washington public, came after an automobile collision here.

Blake Clark, 53, an editor for Readers Digest, and his wife, Deena, asked the District of Columbia legal office to prefer charges against Lt. Col. Maurice P. Schwartz, a Belgian Embassy officer attached to a North Atlantic Treaty Organization office at the Pentagon. They said he rammed their compact car twice here Wednesday night, then departed from the scene.

No Summons

Assistant Corporation Counsel Gordon M. Van Sanford said Schwarz is shielded by immunity, and that the legal office, therefore, had issued no summons for a hearing.

The State Department declared in a public statement—without specifically mentioning the Schwarz case—that diplomatic immunity does not relieve foreign diplomats "from the obligation to respect" American laws.

Press Officer Lincoln White said, under persistent questioning by newsmen, that State Department officials were investigating the Clark-Schwarz controversy. He said the public statement on respect for the law had not been called officially to the attention of the Belgian Embassy. But it was understood U.S. officials were annoyed by a Belgian Embassy spokesman's comment that the embassy "considered the affair closed."

Only 'Touched'

This remark came after Schwarz was quoted as saying he thought he had only "touched" Clark's car with his own, and that he had pushed Clark's car as a "joke."

The Clarks said the Belgian was in the wrong traffic lane when they encountered him, but motioned them back and drove into their car. Police quoted Schwarz as saying he thought the street was a one-way route, giving him right-of-way.

Police accident investigators estimated damage to Clark's car at about $500.

Pay Damages

An embassy spokesman said the Belgian Embassy "regrets this incident and wishes to emphasize that adequate compensation will be paid for the damages."

White said diplomatic immunity simply means that a "diplomat's obligation of compliance with our laws cannot be enforced through the normal legal means."

"When there is serious or repeated disregard of law by a diplomat accredited and received in this country," the statement continued, "it may be necessary for the Department of State to request the individual's departure from the United States."

That was a polite way of reminding diplomats that a government to which they are accredited has the power of ouster to compel observance of its laws.

$5 Billion Deal Will Take Time

Rail Giants Call Consolidation 'An Economic Necessity'

BY ROGER LANE

New York (AP)—The Pennsylvania and New York Central formally agreed Friday to merge the nation's two biggest railroads into a single $5.4 billion assets system.

The giant step, setting out the financial terms for the marriage, still left formidable obstacles which could delay final merger for two years or longer.

In a joint statement following separate board meetings in New York and Philadelphia, the companies called consolidation "an economic necessity which will benefit the nation's economy."

Both carriers experienced tough financial sledding in 1961, although the Pennsy apparently finished the year in the black — barely.

Approval Needed

A formal application for necessary approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission, federal rail regulatory agency, will be filed as soon as possible, probably within 30 days, they said.

Regardless of the final outcome, the firm decision for an all-out effort to link the two transportation giants seemed sure to have far-reaching effects on other pending railroad merger proposals.

Under the plan, the Pennsy and Central would join into a new corporation to be called the Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Co., domiciled in Pennsylvania.

Holders of 13,167,754 outstanding shares of Pennsylvania common would receive common stock in the new corporation on a one-for-one basis.

Holders of 6,521,838 outstanding shares of Central common would receive 1.3 shares of the stock of the new company for each one share in the existing Central company.

Meetings In May

Stockholders of both railroads will be asked to approve the agreement at annual meetings in May.

In Washington, an official of the Justice Department said the proposal will be closely scanned from an antitrust point of view.

The department has been represented at ICC hearings on several other railroad merger plans initiated in 1961 and earlier years, and strongly opposed one — projected union of the Seaboard Air Line and Atlantic Coast Line railroads.

The proposed Pennsy-Central combined system would embrace about 20,300 miles of track—nearly 10% of the nationwide mileage now in service.

Much Paralleling

The two lines, paralleling over much of their respective service areas, each now serve Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Louisville, Indianapolis and several other large cities in the northeastern quarter of the country.

Under Friday's pact, the Pennsylvania would nominate the chairman of the new company's board, who also would be chief executive officer.

New York Central directors would nominate a president, who would be chief administrative officer of the combined operation.

University Club Eyeing Elks Building

Officials of the University Club, which now occupies the two top floors of the Stuart Building, are investigating the feasibility of purchase of the Elks Lodge building at 13th and P.

A Lincoln architect was instructed by the club board to investigate the building and its suitability as a site. He has not yet reported his findings to the Univerity Club directors.

Ralph Connell, secretary of Elks Lodge No. 80, confirmed that the present building will be up for sale when the Elks move into the recently-purchased former Western Electric building at 13th and Q.

He said that no formal plans had yet been formulated by the Elks building committee, and that the move was not expected for 18 months or longer.

Two young men were taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital for treatment of facial lacerations after their car struck a light pole on No. Cotner Blvd. early Saturday.

They were J. L. Murphy of Grand Island, the driver, and Robin Snider of Lincoln, both 22.

The pole was in the median strip on Cotner at Aylesworth. Murphy said he "didn't know the island was there and didn't see it in time."

Korean Educators Impressed—Sons Don't Bow

What about America impresses a team of Korean educators?

Many things—but most of all the family status of sons and daughters.

Four Korean educators visiting the University of Nebraska agreed they were almost overwhelmed by witnessing a casual meeting of Dr. Wesley C. Meierhenry, assistant dean of Teachers College, and his son, Dwight, a student in the College of Dentistry.

The meeting took place in the Nebraska Union, where son Dwight was having a cup of coffee and saluted his dad with a wave of his hand.

Bow In Korea

"We assumed he must be one of Dr. Meierhenry's professional colleagues," said Sung Bong Park, vice principal of Pusan's Middle School. "In Korea in public no son would remain seated when his father entered. He would stand and bow and remain standing until given leave to be seated."

Sung Bong Park and his 3 companions were quick to say they would like to have some of this American freedom for youth in their own country because they feel Oriental family traditions sometimes defeat new ideas and change.

At this point, Dr. Meierhenry put in a tactful word of caution:

"Family freedom is fine," he said, "but some Americans think we overdo it."

Studying Materials

The Korean team, Park, Yong Chin Oh, dean of the college of education, Kyung Book University; Do Sun Lee, a school supervisor for the Kyunggi Do provincial government, and Yong Bok Choi, curriculum officer for the Korean ministry of education, are in the United States to study the use of audio-visual materials in teaching.

While in Lincoln Mr. Park had a reunion with Jerry Dempsey of O'Neill, who as a GI helped Mr. Park with his English in Korea.

Fight For Public School Aid Bill To Be Pressed

RIBICOFF HOPEFUL

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff said Friday night President Kennedy and the administration intend to press for action by Congress on the bill for federal aid to public schools.

"Everything possible will be done to get this bill considered favorably by the House of Representatives," Ribicoff said in a statement.

"I urge on the members of both houses (of Congress) that they press vigorously for action on the president's total . . . program for federal aid to education."

Kennedy Stands Firm

A White House official also said Kennedy stands on his State of the Union message to Congress Thursday, in which he urged Congress to act on a broad program of aid to education.

This official described as 100% untrue a report that the administration will not press for action on the general public school bill, in hopes of winning passage of less controversial education measures.

This official and Ribicoff were commenting on a report attributed to Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., that the administration was giving up the fight for its general public school aid bill.

Denial By Powell

Powell himself, after Ribicoff issued his statement, said the report was based on a newsman's misinterpretation of remarks he made in an interview.

A reporter understood Powell, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, to say the administration did not intend to push for action on the public school aid measure.

Powell disputed that, saying in a statement:

"What I said was that the President, in his message to Congress, said he was standing behind the bill sent up last year so there was no need for another bill."

Bitter Fight Last Year

This as a reference to the administration bill to provide federal funds for public school construction and teachers salaries.

The bill touched off a bitter controversy last year when Roman Catholic leaders insisted that parochial schools should share in the program. The resulting stalemate doomed all education bills for the session.

Because of the religious issue and considerable opposition to the measure in the house on other grounds, most congressmen interested have conceded that the bill's prospects this year are slim.

Powell has said repeatedly that unless Kennedy personally calls on him to do so, he does not intend to make any move to revive the bill, stuck in the House Rules committee.

He discussed the whole question at an hour-long conference with Ribicoff Friday.

STUDENT SUES; CLAIMS A GIANT CAUSED INJURY

Spokane, Wash. (AP) — A student who claims the "giant" fell on him during a production of "Jack and the Beanstalk" has brought suit against Spokane School District 81 and the children's theater.

Arthur D. Summers, through a suit filed by his father, seeks $5,095 for injuries allegedly suffered.

Summers, now a student at Washington State University, said he was standing at the foot of the beanstalk when the prop collapsed while the giant was descending during the high school theater group production.

The complaint contends the group was negligent in not properly supporting the beanstalk, which was constructed of piano wire.

He said about 80% of the school's 400 high school students participate in the twist. Others use the "break" for study, strolls, or whatever they wish.

RESPONSE TO JFK MESSAGE IS FAVORABLE

Washington (AP)— The White House said Friday it has received hundreds of telegrams, overwhelmingly favorable, on President Kennedy's State of the Union message to Congress.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said he looked over the first 100 telegrams to arrive and only two were critical.

The rest of the 100, he said, were of a favorable tone, singling out one or more aspects of the message for particular praise.

Man Treated For Razor Wounds

James H. Jones, 34, of 1027 No. 23, was treated and released from a local hospital Friday following an argument which ended in his being slashed with a straight razor.

Twenty-five stitches were required to close the wounds on his throat and ear which police said were inflicted by a 21-year-old Lincoln Air Force Base airman.

Jones attempted to drive home after being cut but passed out at the wheel of his car and rammed a parked auto, police said.

The airman was being held by police pending formal filing of charges.

A FISHERMAN'S DREAM

Hundreds of fish numbed by icy waters at East Beach, Galveston, Tex., were netted by commercial fisherman. The possibility of a "fish kill" similar to one in 1951 loomed—thousands of live but helpless fish tossed onto the beach by an incoming tide. Above are speckled trout and redfish, 2½ to 9 pounds, scooped in one sweep.

Whole Town Dead, Buried

. . . Ranrahirca, And Most Of 4,000 Citizens Erased

By THOMAS J. STONE

Ranrahirca, Peru (AP)—This Andes mountain village is dead and buried.

Most of its 4,000 residents, its tiny Roman Catholic church, its tile-roofed houses and its stores lie under 45 feet of rock and mud.

There is not a single visible reminder that a farm village in this snowcapped Andean region by the name of Ranrahirca ever existed.

All that can be seen is a deep, mile-wide river of churned up earth and boulders that crashed down the mountain slopes and entombed the village.

It is unlikely that anyone who was in the village at supper time Wednesday escaped alive.

Other Hamlets Engulfed

In a few terrible minutes — an eyewitness estimated 8 — Ranrahirca and a number of little settlements around it were engulfed, burying alive those in the path of the avalanche.

The young as well as the old, the healthy as well as the sick, the rich as well as the poor were killed in their tracks.

There were a few people living in adobe huts on the hills nearby who heard the warning roar of the oncoming rush of millions of tons of ice, snow, boulders and earth, and fled for their lives.

Among those who escaped are Manuel Melgarejo and his wife and two children.

"We had just had supper when we heard a big noise," he said. "I thought it was an explosion.

"I called my wife," he continued, "and we grabbed up our two kids and ran, leaving everything behind.

"When we looked back a few minutes later, we saw what had happened. And then it became fearfully quiet and a black cloud hung over the valley."

His Home Spared

Melgarejo, whose home was not in the path of the avalanche, slowly walked back to look where Ranrahirca had been.

He and other hillside survivors were stunned.

"I could not believe it," the 26-year-old mountain man said.

"Not until dawn did I see the awful destruction. There was no one injured. All in the path were killed and buried."

Hundreds of bodies will never be found. It is considered futile now to even try to dig into the debris for victims, although some relatives seeking their kin poke around with sticks.

A Mile Wide

An eyewitness estimated that the avalanche pushed a river of debris one mile wide and 6 miles long. One boulder that crashed down the valley looked as big as a 4-story building.

In Lima the chairman of the avalanche disaster committee said the enormous slide left so few survivors that available aid is more than adequate.

"Nurses and doctors at the scene can find no one to take care of," reported Gen. Luis Urrelo. He said the number of dead "will probably never be known but I think it is over 2,000."

DISALLE IS BACK IN RACE

. . . For Governor

Columbus, Ohio (AP)—Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle got back into this year's race for governor Friday. The campaign—which has all the earmarks of a slam-bang affair—was under way inside 15 minutes.

Gov. DiSalle

DiSalle's decision to run was not entirely unexpected since President Kennedy last Saturday night braved the foulest kind of flying weather to jet into Columbus to speak some kind words on behalf of DiSalle, on the occasion of the governor's 54th birthday.

DiSalle said he would run for a second 4-year term, despite his Oct. 20 announcement that he intended to bow out, for two reasons:

1. A Republican-controlled Legislature met in an extraordinary financial session Nov. 14 and "again refused to meet the needs of this state."

2. He is now convinced that the "fight for a program cannot be conducted by halfway measures."

COSMOS CLUB SCRAP IS FAR FROM FINISHED

Washington (AP) — Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, said Friday he will fight to strip secrecy from the blackballing of prospective members of the exclusive Cosmos Club.

What he specifically wants to know is why Carl T. Rowan, deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs, was turned down at the Admissions Committee's meeting last Monday. Some members have said it is because Rowan is a Negro.

The action led to protest resignations by several members and official word that President Kennedy, who was up for membership, had lost interest in joining the club.

Gruening, a member of the Cosmos Club since 1940, told a reporter he prefers to keep his membership and fight for revision of the rules rather than resign without doing something affirmative.

He said he would attend a general meeting of the club scheduled next Monday and would raise the issue — or join others in raising it — as to whether Rowan was rejected because he is a Negro. Gruening added that he is reserving his judgment on whether that is the reason.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., also a member, said in a separate interview that he, too, is concerned about the Rowan case, but would reserve decision on whether to resign from the club until more facts are known.

Cooper said he will consider resigning if it is established that the Cosmos Club has a policy of excluding Negroes from membership, but he added:

"Knowing the character of the membership, I would doubt that is their policy."

Plane Clips TV Tower; Five Killed

Chippewa Falls, Wis. (AP)—A sleek executive airplane winging along just below a low overcast sliced into a soaring television antenna receiving tower Friday and sent 5 men spinning to their deaths.

Four of the men were officials of the Oscar Mayer Meat Packing company of Madison, en route to Rice Lake to inspect the products of an insulation materials factory there. The 5th was their pilot, an Air Force veteran employed by the Morey Aviation Co. of Middleton.

The victims:

Oren Slausen, 34, Middleton, the pilot.

William B. Ahern, 49, Madison, a development engineer.

Edmund G. Blair, 33, a project engineer.

Earl W. Blankenheim, 42, Sun Prairie, automotive supervisor.

John A. Weaver, 39, Madison, an assistant project engineer.

Deaths of the 4 executives left 21 children fatherless. Blankenheim was the father of 9, Weaver of 6, Ahern of 4 and Blair of two. Slausen was a bachelor.

The tower the 5-place plane failed to avoid in the fog is a community television relay, reaching up more than 400 feet from the highest point of land in the hilly terrain just northwest of the Chippewa Falls city limits.

Citrus Loss Runs Into Millions

. . . From Low Temps

By United Press International

All-time low temperatures froze millions of dollars' worth of citrus fruit in the frigid lower Rio Grande Valley Friday and a wintry blast plastered freezing rain and snow on Dixie's Atlantic seaboard from north Florida to Virginia.

The week-long cold wave took a soaring toll in lives and crops as it clung to the South and threatened south and central Florida's citrus and vegetable crops for the first time.

The cold eased in the West and North. But freezing temperatures still chilled all the nation except the Florida peninsula and the West coast. The mercury fell to 38 below at Fraser, Colo., and 18 below at Big Piney, Wyo.

In one full week of wintry ordeal, the nation counted at least 202 deaths blamed on the weather. Texas alone had 32 and Illinois 26.

Kennedy Defers To Right

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy has delivered a well-written, workmanlike State of the Union message. The drama and the conflict came later in committee rooms, in private huddles and in an occasional close roll call.

There was no reason to expect anything else in the 1962 confrontation of President and Congress. The battle lines had been drawn before he came to the Hill, and he had already dismissed the militant attack, the frontal approach.

All the surprise expressed on the sidelines was directed at the fact that the young President should defer so much to the power of that older generation which he has so often declared must give way. It is true that the customs and rules of Congress exalt seniority. But there is not the slightest reason to believe that the American people are resisting a takeover by the President and his contemporaries.

Some observers believe the President does not know his own strength. Republican conservatives are among those suggesting that the extremist right's power is a myth.

In some respects, as seen in Congress, it is certainly not a myth. House Republican Leader Charles Halleck is reliably described as certain that the conservative hour has at long last struck and that a determined attack on the Kennedy program will yield a Republican House majority next year. This would, of course, make Halleck speaker.

What Republican state leaders think of this unbending approach will be developed this weekend when the Republican National Committee meets in Oklahoma City to plan the congressional campaign. Unless the committee raises some effective warning signals about the danger of narrowing the party base, there will be little reason to expect Halleck to back down.

Maybe he won't, anyway. He has waited a long time —since 1935 — for the sweet taste of great personal power and has made no secret of his frustrations. Even eight years of President Eisenhower yielded him but two years as the head Republican of the House and then he was only minority leader.

Halleck is rough in political combat. So also is the new Democratic speaker, Rep. John McCormack. Conflict between them could be colorful, but it would be irrelevant to the main issue of what course the United States must take in this dangerous nuclear world.

The danger is that the House may pursue a course so negative, behind all the uproar, that its actions will prove irrelevant, too. The Senate could do something but not everything to alter that outcome for the better.

Senate Republicans have put themselves in the hands of Farm Belt Republicans. With the choice of Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa as Policy Committee chairman. The score is: five of the top six Republican jobs held by midwesterners, the sixth going to California's Sen. Thomas Kuchel, who is party whip. This is something less than an endorsement of moderation.

Demo Liberals In House Plan Steering Committee

. . . And They Are Confident Of Achieving Goal

Washington (AP)—House Democratic liberals said Friday they are confident of achieving their goal of setting up a steering committee to advise and consult with the party leadership on legislative business.

Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, at his first formal news conference, gave a somewhat lukewarm endorsement to the idea. "I would have no objection if the Democratic caucus decides to do it," he said.

The speaker added that the way he sees it, a steering committee's purpose would be to co-operate with the leadership and "it logically follows that I think it could serve a useful purpose."

McCormack almost immediately after his selection ruled out the idea of a policy committee as a group that would dictate policy to his leadership and in effect supplant the powerful Rules Committee. That generally conservative group controls the flow of legislation to the House floor.

Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., a strong supporter of the steering committee idea, told newsmen "there never was any thought of supplanting the Rules Committee." He said he is satisfied with the Rules Committee as it is now constituted.

'Never Shy' Americans Impress Visiting Scot

By WOODY HOWE
Star Staff Writer

Friendliness and lack of restraint are the qualities of American school children most striking to a visiting Scot, educator Joseph D. Hoy.

"You Americans are to be respected," Hoy says, "because you never seem to be shy in any company — we Britons go to the other extreme."

Hoy and his wife are concluding a 3-week visit in Lincoln, the first stop on their 6-month tour of U.S. education institutions, under the auspices of the British government.

JOSEPH D. HOY

If Britons in general are stiffer than their American cousins, it wasn't evident in the actions of the Scot couple, who invited this reporter into their temporary home Friday for a long chat about educational customs here and abroad.

The Hoys' son William, and his wife, Joan, are instructors at the University of Nebraska.

Surprised

"We were agreeably surprised at the friendly atmosphere when we toured Lincoln High with headmaster Bogar," said Hoy. His voice, touched with more of an aristocratic British accent than a Scottish highland accent, showed astonishment when he described actions of the students on meeting their principal in the halls:

"They said 'hi' to their headmaster!

"Even the men sweeping the floor said 'hi' to the headmaster."

His wife interjected, "One would think there'd be less frustration and anxiety in an atmosphere where there is no fear of authority."

Language Problem

Among other contrasts observed by Hoy was the lack of general ability with the English language shown by American students.

"Many in our grammar schools (roughly equivalent to U.S. high schools) would do better than your university students in the matter of expression," he observed, carefully avoiding the implication this was a criticism of U.S. students' native ability. The reason for it, he explained, is the subjective tests British pupils take from their 7th year on, in contrast to America's traditional objective tests.

"Objective tests simply don't lead to refinement of expression, as essay tests do," he said.

Other facets of American instruction that struck him are the numbers of students who go to college and the material wealth students enjoy.

"Only 4% of the population go to universities in Britain—this must seem to you very, very small.

Isn't Room

"We would like more to go to the universities. We fear many are being rejected because there simply isn't room."

British students seldom have cars, Hoy said, so it is an "eye-opener to see the number of cars around schools here that belong to pupils."

Teachers' scales of living in Britain, or in Europe for that matter, are no higher than they are in the U.S., he noted. "Unfortunately, and I don't mean this in any derogatory sense, teachers are in the low middle class any place in the world."

Hoy took a final look at Lincoln students at their leisure Friday night, taking in the Northeast-Lincoln High basketball game. It's a good thing he admires lack of restraint.

Dismissal Of Rhodes' Suit Under Study

A motion for dismissal of a $4.2 million civil rights suit brought by Attorney Paul Rhodes, formerly of Bridgeport, was taken under advisement Friday by U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt of Lincoln.

Rhodes is suing a group of Nebraska and Morrill County officials, including the judges of the Supreme Court, alleging that his civil liberties and constitutional rights were infringed by the defendants.

Attorneys for the state argued that the named officials are immune from suit under the allegations made in Rhodes' complaint.

Now In Prison

The action grew out of a contempt of court conviction on which Rhodes was fined $2,500 and sentenced to 9 months in prison by the Morrill County District Court, though Rhodes was absent during the conviction and sentencing proceedings.

State attorneys argued Rhodes waived his right to be present at the 1960 contempt trial when he failed to appear on trial date and the court ruled there was no sufficient reason for continuance to a later date.

Rhodes, accompanied by penitentiary guards, appeared in the federal court to argue his own case.

Rhodes contended the named defendants conspired in the contempt proceeding against him, but the state's attorneys argued Rhodes made no specific allegation.

Asks Order

Rhodes also asked the court to issue a restraining order against his further imprisonment.

He also contended he had not had enough time to study briefs presented by the state and complained of prison treatment.

Rhodes also said he had not been permitted all the law books he needed in relation to his case.

Appearing for the state were Robert A. Nelson, special assistant attorney general, and Dwain L. Jones, assistant attorney general.

Reformatory Chief Ponders Resignation

Harold D. Smith, superintendent of the Men's Reformatory, told The Star Friday he will give Institutions Director George Morris his decision Monday on whether he will resign from the post he has held nearly 4 years.

Morris has offered Smith a position as his special administrative assistant in the new Department of Institutions, but Smith said he has not yet decided whether he will accept it.

He has received several other job offers as well, Smith said, adding that he wants to give the whole matter serious consideration before making a decision.

Smith, 62, was a captain with the State Safety Patrol in charge of the criminal division when he was named Reformatory superintendent in March, 1958, by the Board of Control.

He had 21 years' service with the Patrol.

HARRY A. SPENCER

Knight Near Decision On Second Term

Sen. George A. Knight said Friday he will announce within a few days whether he will seek re-election to a second term in the Legislature from the 18th District.

Reports have circulated variously that the Lincoln banker will, and will not, try for another term.

Jerome Warner of Waverly has filed for the office, and is thus far uncontested.

Warner lost out to Knight in 1960 when both sought the office for the first time.

Dickeson Says 'No'

Lincoln attorney Roger Dickeson, whose name has been prominent in speculation as a possible entrant in the race, told The Star Friday he will not be a candidate.

Dickeson said he has decided against seeking the post "for personal reasons."

Another Lincoln attorney, J. Max Harding, also has been rumored as interested in the 18th District seat, but he said he has never given the thought serious consideration.

Tourist Maps To Stimulate Travel Urged

A plan to print and locally distribute vicinity maps and brochures of Nebraska points of interest has been proposed by the executive secretary of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers Association.

These informative publications aimed at boosting tourism could be paid for by those who would profit by their distribution, George Watters, the plan's originator, has suggested.

Possible sponsors might include motels, restaurants, and oil jobbers.

James Weaver, Lincoln oil jobber, told of Watters' scheme at a meeting of the association Friday night.

The oil dealer emphasized the value of tourism as a means of developing an expanded gas market to offset the recent trend toward economy in gas consumption shown by American motorists.

The 20 oil men present were urged to attend the upcoming Oil Marketers Management Institute to be held next month at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

William E. Daugherty, assistant Nebraska state tax commissioner, discussed the relationship of the oil marketers to the state tax department and offered the jobbers suggestions to follow in filing their tax returns.

Kennedy Looks To Future

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It would be most unusual if any partisan observer agreed entirely with everything the President proposed in his State of the Union message to the opening session of Congress. But the message in general was a constructive one and one calculated to move the nation forward on a wide front. As was expected, the President's words seemed to be about equally divided between the economic and military scene.

The Soft Sell Out

Some things President Kennedy probably does not expect to get but he put his stamp of approval on them just the same. He was not expected, for instance, to call for legislation giving aid to secondary education or for any change in the civil rights field. He did both, however, which should cause a reassesment of the approach he intends to use with Congress. It was believed that the President was going to attempt a soft sell approach — trying mainly for things he considered a possibility and eliminating things which would only create controversy, have little chance of passing and perhaps hurt through bitter feelings the chances of other programs.

But inclusion of the general aid to education bill and a strengthening of Negro voting rights are evidence that Kennedy has not lost his fighting spirit. In contrast to his address a year ago, his remarks this week seemed to place greater emphasis on the domestic economy and it is in this area that major battles appear certain. It is doubtful the President will get any more than half the tax program he wants and doubtful that he should.

Changes in the tax structure to stimulate business investment in new plants and equipment may get the green light and this is a proper approach to the tax subject. But the authority he seeks to manipulate taxes in the lower income brackets is a departure full of uncertainties and not very likely to find a majority reception in Congress.

Nor will there be anything calm in the approach to medical care for the aged tied to Social Security as Kennedy wants it. This will be a bitterly contested program and poses a real problem for anyone giving it sincere thought. There are aspects of the Social Security approach which are not in its favor, such as aid dispensed indiscriminately among those who need it and those who don't and the lack of aid for the most needy in the under-$90 range. On the other hand, the Kerr-Mills bill now on the books has been used only sparingly by the various states except as a strict welfare measure. It has done practically nothing to help the average person who could face financial ruin simply because he and his wife are growing old.

It sems as though this question could be argued for the rest of eternity and probably not settled on much of a factual basis. The question is primarily a social and philosophical one and its answer varies according to the individual political beliefs of people. What is basically needed is a program to assure people that the unavoidable ills and sickness of old age do not constitute a major threat to an acceptable way of life. It should not be required in this day and age that illness reduce a person to a state of servitude and abject poverty. Many who lean toward the Social Security approach do so, in spite of its drawbacks, because of the humanitarian principles involved.

There are other places where the President may well meet with defeat but where defeat may be of only limited importance. Such is the case with federal aid to states for public fallout shelters and establishment of a training and employment program for young people out of school. These and some other matters may get the axe on a priority basis rather than on any question of merit.

What the President aims to do is to move forcefully into areas that create problems in our economy. This is the reason for his legislation aimed at helping workers displaced as a result of automation or business failure and for helping business which might suffer as a result of expanded trade with foreign nations. And of course, it is the basis for his planned change in the reciprocal trade agreements act.

The Balanced Budget

Thus, the President has moved on the social, economic and military fronts and while there is not expected to be universal acceptance of his program, it has the mark of a determined effort to move the nation forward. It represents a strengthening of the weaknesses Kennedy believed existed when he campaigned for office. Of major importance will be the question of how the program can be provided with a balanced budget and this is no small problem. Without an extension of certain existing excise and corporate taxes and an increase in postal rates, budget-balancing would probably be impossible without cutting the program.

But the issue of a balanced budget is often a much distorted thing. A balanced budget in itself is really not too much of a trick because income can always be matched one way or another with expenditures at the federal level. The more important thing is the total tax bite and the relative merit of individual proposals. A balanced budget as such is little more than a bookkeeping device.

A New Health Measure

A surprise in the Kennedy State of the Union package was his proposal for a mass immunization program "aimed at the elimination of such ancient enemies of our children as polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus." The surprise comes from two areas. One, nobody knew about any such proposal's being in the President's mind.

Secondly and more to the point, there is some question as to the advisability of such action. The four diseases listed by the President have not been completely wiped out but have declined sharply in recent years. Manufacturers now have a drug on the market which will immunize against all four at one time and doctors today generally vaccinate against all but polio at the time of birth and as a matter of routine.

The problem in this area has not so much been one of ability to be vaccinated but willingness to take the time and make the effort to do so. Those who cannot afford vaccinations can obtain them through public health agencies and not all those who could or should have taken advantage of this. Few indeed are the children these days who are not vaccinated against all four diseases.

Adults simply have not bothered to get the job done, many of them having up to one or two polio vaccinations and letting the second or third one slide. This peculiarity of human nature is not something that can be cured in any monetary way.

No Natural Defenses

Distinguished flying crosses were pinned on tunic breasts and attending newsmen took notes briskly because the occasion was a new air flight record.

A new U.S. B52H bomber had just landed at the Torrejon Airbase, a U.S. installation in Spain. Just 22 hours and nine minutes earlier it had taken off from a U.S. Air Force base on Okinawa. The non-stop flight covered 11,235.6 miles. It spanned two oceans and the North American continent.

The magnitude of the feat is emphasized by recalling that the epoch making trans Atlantic non-stop flight by Charles A. Lindbergh, May 21, 1927 covered 3,625 miles in 33.5 hours.

Suffice to say that the current record in a few years will be even more prosaic than is the Lindbergh record in the light of today's flight capacity. Yet in terms of national security it is well to realize that a nation's frontiers must expand in proportion to the retreat of natural barriers against an enemy. Obviously there is no more any dependable natural barriers. We can be reached by anyone with flight power and we can reach anyone. This gives a touch of quaintness to the dramatic statement of the late Franklin Roosevelt in 1940 that "our frontiers are on the Rhine."

By these great achievements we lose as we gain. In this we achieved a great range of mobility but we also lost that much in security. This is an invincible fact—one which forever dispels that fond delusion that we can return to isolation. It would be a serious error even to hope nostalgically for it.

Editorial Of The Day

Trade-At-Home Demonstration

From The Denver Post

Back East, a Connecticut branch of the League of Women Voters has planned a demonstration to show the importance of international trade to our economy. At first blush, it seems like such a good idea that we are tempted to suggest that some Western ladies adopt the idea for a similar demonstration.

The Stamford, Conn., League will try to dramatize international trade by calling for a one-day boycott of all foreign goods, just to show housewives and their spouses what we buy abroad, in case they are inclined to be forgetful.

This means that hubby will arise in time to catch the 8:03 or to drive to the office, and will be deprived of his cup of coffee. A great beginning for the day!

Then hubby will get no pepper for his eggs, and if the family uses linen napkins, he will wipe his hands on his necktie. If the family uses paper napkins, he might as well wipe them on his necktie, because chances are the paper in the napkins came from Canada.

Well, hubby gets up from the table, making sure he is not wearing English shoes, and that his suit is from American wool, and puts on his hat. But if it is a Borsalino, he has to take it off again, because this is not an American brand.

Tieless, coffeeless, hatless, coatless, suitless, and shoeless, our poor man arrives at the office, to sit at his desk, which has been removed overnight for the purpose of our demonstration because the steel is tempered with minerals imported from foreign shores.

His steel is tempered, too.

Arriving home, after having been pencilless (we don't grow any rubber do we?), paperless, and perhaps even lunchless unless he was careful to eat nothing with any foreign elements, or cooked on a stove—our hero is annoyed. We do not even know how he got to the office, because he could not drive in his car with tires, or take a train or ride a streetcar since all of these have components from foreign lands.

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

Reciprocal Trade Issue: Background And Analysis

The "Great Debate" of 1962—the controversy over President Kennedy's proposal that Congress scrap the 27-year-old Trade Agreements Act and replace it with new, streamlined machinery—began in earnest well before the reconvening of Congress. The President's authority to negotiate trade agreements under the 1934 Act will expire June 30, 1962. In two major speeches in early December 1961, Mr. Kennedy presented the outlines of his proposals, leaving the details to be spelled out in a special message after Congress reconvenes. (Dec. 6 speech before the National Assn. of Manufacturers, Dec. 7 speech before the AFL-CIO.) He indicated that he would ask Congress to replace the existing law with new legislation which: authorized the President to negotiate new trade agreements cutting existing tariffs further and in the negotiations to deal with broad categories of goods — "across-the-board" — rather than negotiate item-by-item as currently required; contained some kind of "trade adjustment" program to retrain workers or help industries convert where they clearly cannot compete with imports; and retained some kind of "escape clause" giving injured industries an avenue of seeking a modification of a trade agreement.

In many ways the debate over the President's proposal will not be unlike earlier trade debates, which have been noisy as well as frequent. The authority under the 1934 Act has been extended 11 times; the Administration in power, invariably calling for extensions and further liberalization, has usually won, but often at the expense of protectionists' amendments.

But in several ways the 1962 trade debate will employ dramatically new terms. The President is for the first time publicly acknowledging that his requests are going to hurt some import-sensitive industries, softening the blow with his "trade adjustment" proposal. And the European Common Market is now a thriving reality instead of a distant spectre on the horizon. The problems of Japan as a unique Asian trading nation, and of the growing number of independent, underdeveloped nations which need special trade concessions from the industrialized countries, are not new but are becoming increasingly acute. All this in the face of a persistently high unemployment rate in the U.S.

Legislative History

Congress, empowered by the Constitution (Article 1, Section 8) to "lay and collect taxes, duties, imports and excises," and to "regulate commerce with foreign nations," last revised basic tariff rates and classifications in the Tariff Act of 1930, the so-called Smoot-Hawley tariff law which raised duties to an all-time high. The protectionist character of the Act reflected the then-prevailing view that high tariffs would assure domestic prosperity in the face of the world-wide depression then underway.

By 1933, U.S. imports had dropped from an average of $4 billion per year under the Tariff Act of 1922 to $1.4 billion, while exports had slipped from $4.6 billion to $1.6 billion. Expansion of exports, a major goal of the New Deal's recovery program, was the explicit objective of the Trade Agreements Act of 1934, the proud achievement of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. The law gave the President authority to lower tariffs by up to 50 per cent of the rates established in 1930. Implicitly, but not formally, Congress was relieved of its role as tariff-setter. Since then, it has set tariffs on only about a dozen items. The basic authority of the 1934 Act was extended without change in 1937, 1940 and 1943.

Hull

By 1945, bilateral trade agreements had been made with 27 countries, and much of the 50 per cent tariff-cutting authority provided in 1934 had been exhausted.

Moreover, the U.S. emerged from World War II as the only nation with a strong economy and sufficient international credit to continue to trade. The rest of the former world traders, with flattened economies and nothing to sell and no credit with which to buy U.S. goods, were turning to currency and other exchange restrictions to strengthen their domestic positions, with the result that international trade was impeded. To overcome these problems, the U.S. foreign policy was geared to helping these nations rebuild their economies and establish credit through the Marshall Plan, World Bank, etc., and U.S. trade policy was aimed at a general lowering of trade barriers throughout the world, in return for U.S. tariff concessions.

The President therefore asked, and Congress granted, authority to make further reductions up to 50 per cent of the rates in effect in 1945. This authority, extended in 1948, 1949, 1951, 1953 and 1954, permitted a maximum possible reduction of 75 per cent in the rates in effect in 1934.

In 1955, the President was authorized to cut tariffs another 15 per cent from rates existing in 1955 and in 1958, 20 per cent of rates existing July 1, 1958. Thus, a duty of $1 in 1934 theoretically could be cut first to 50 cents, then after 1945 to 25 cents, after 1955 to 21¼ cents, and after 1958 to 17 cents—a reduction of 83 per cent.

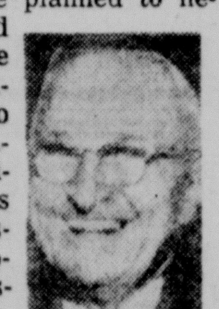
Each time the President was authorized to cut tariffs further from existing rates, the authority to make the earlier cuts expired—there was no carryover.

The actual reduction in the average level of U.S. tariffs since passage of the 1934 Act has been no less dramatic than the increase in international trade. U.S. imports averaged $1.7 billion during the period 1931-35, of which $629 million or 37 per cent was subject to duties that averaged 50 per cent of value. In 1959, by contrast, of imports totalling $15 billion, $9.2 billion or 61 per cent was subject to duties that averaged only 11.5 per cent of value.

Actually, restrictions in the President's power added by Congress over the years have limited the full force of the authorized tariff cuts. The first successful effort to restrict the President's powers under the Trade Agreements Act came in 1948, when the Republican-controlled 80th Congress inserted the "peril point" provision. This provision was removed by Congress in 1949 but reinserted in 1951, along with the "escape clause."

The peril point provision required the President to submit to the Tariff Commission a list of all items on which he planned to negotiate and required the Tariff Commission to recommend minimum rates necessary to protect domestic production of articles similar to those on which duties were to be reduced. If the President made agreements undercutting these "peril points," he had to explain to Congress his reasons for doing so. President Truman, who had strongly opposed the peril point provision, made it a 1948 campaign issue and the next year the Democratic 81st Congress repealed the provision when it extended the trade program until 1951. In 1951, the peril point section was restored.



Truman

Also in 1951, Congress imposed its authority over Presidential use of the escape clause in trade agreements, by establishing through legislation the mechanics the President must follow before using the clause to release the U.S. from an agreement which had hurt a domestic industry. An escape clause was first incorporated into a trade agreement in 1943 with Mexico. President Truman in 1947 by Executive Order made inclusion of an escape clause in all trade agreements mandatory. The "escape clause" provision of 1951 required the Tariff Commission to investigate any case of reported "serious injury" to a domestic industry because of a duty reduction. The Commission could recommend changes in the tariff; if the President did not act on the recommendation, he was required to report his reasons to Congress.

Both provisions were considerably broadened in the 1955 and 1958 Trade Agreements Extension Acts. The 1955 Act amended both provisions so that the Tariff Commission could recommend action if any segment of an industry, not necessarily the industry as a whole, was suffering from import competition. It also broadened the escape clause so that relief could be granted if imports "contributed substantially toward causing or threatening serious injury" to a domestic industry. The 1958 Act amended the escape clause section further by shortening from nine months to six months the deadline for Tariff Commission reports in escape-clause investigations and by providing that, in the event the President disapproved a Commission escape clause recommendation, Congress could override his decision within 60 days by adopting a concurrent resolution, requiring a two-thirds vote of both the House and Senate. This was the first provision for a Congressional veto of Presidential tariff decisions in the history of the Trade Agreements Act. The 1958 Act also increased from 120 days to six months the time given the Tariff Commission to complete peril-point investigations.

Applications for escape clause relief numbered 130 through November 1961. The Tariff Commission, or three of its six members, found injury to a domestic industry in only 40 of the cases. U.S. Presidents increased duties in 13 cases and rejected the recommendations in 23; four cases were still on President Kennedy's desk at the end of 1961. The Tariff Commission by law may consider only the effect of imports on a domestic industry or a segment of it; the President weighs this against the size of the affected business, possibilities of diversification, competitive factors other than imports causing injury, and the effect of a tariff increase on U.S. relations with other nations. If the U.S. invokes the escape clause it usually offers a compensatory concession to the nations affected; otherwise, it risks retaliation.

The 1934 Act and its Extension Acts are permanent legislation. If the President's negotiating authority is allowed to expire in 1962 and the Act and the extensions, or parts of them, are not repealed, the escape clause and national security clause would remain in effect. So, of course, would peril points, but there would be no need for this clause without the negotiating authority.

How Act Works

In carrying out his authority under the Trade Agreements Act, the President relies on a network of interdepartmental committees, which are organized to give him opinions and information from all Government agencies concerned with foreign trade—from the technical level up to the Cabinet —and from the public. The entire process is coordinated by the State Department.

The United States through 1960 had negotiated trade agreements with 56 nations. Before 1947 the agreements were bilateral, negotiated between the U.S. and individuals foreign countries. Through the traditional "most-favored-nation" policy, embodied in the Trade Agreements Act, concessions granted in the bilateral negotiations were then extended to all other countries. This was designed to equalize the benefits of trade agreements and overcome preferential trade arrangements.

GATT. Following World War II, in an effort to bring down tariff as well as other trade barriers, the U.S. took the lead in inviting other major trading nations to participate in negotiating the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), a multilateral trade agreement concluded at Geneva in 1947 by 23 countries. The GATT provides general trade rules and the schedules of tariff concessions for each participating country. The rules protect the concessions from nullification or impairment. At the end of 1961, there were 44 members of GATT and its schedules covered about 70,000 items. (The U.S. schedule has about 4,000 items.)

In the GATT multilateral negotiations, bilateral trade negotiations are conducted between several pairs of countries concurrently. When the negotiations are completed, the results of all of the bilateral negotiations are combined into a single agreement between all of the participating countries, with each, with certain exceptions, having a contractual right in the agreements reached by each pair of countries. The U.S. participated in GATT negotiating rounds held in 1949, 1950 and 1955.

The first use of the President's negotiating power under the 1958 Act was made in the GATT negotiations which began in Geneva in September 1960 and continued through all of 1961. Actually, two stages of negotiations were going on in Geneva. The first involved renegotiation of existing GATT agreements, mainly to make adjustments the GATT schedule required by the development of the European Common Market. The second stage involved negotiation of new tariff concessions by all GATT members. This was the so-called "Dillon round" of GATT negotiations, so named because in the fall of 1958 then Under Secretary of State Douglas Dillon suggested another round of GATT negotiations. In the course of the negotiations, the Common Market renegotiations and the Dillon round became intertwined. It took the United States from the fall of 1958 to May 27, 1960 to draw up its list of items on which to bargain; then the peril points had to be determined and the concessions to be offered formulated.

Dillon

Both the list-making and the negotiations become time-consuming, complex and tedious because separate agreements must be reached on each type of item under discussion. For example, if the U.S. decides to strike a new agreement on imports of British-made widgets (a widget is a mythical item which enjoys great favor among those explaining trade negotiations), chances are that separate concessions must be negotiated for gold-plated widgets, aluminum-based widgets, and widgets with movable parts. The GATT members in 1961 therefore agreed that some new method should be found for negotiating and set up a group to study the problem. It was implicit that the new method would involve across-the-board bargaining (technically known as the "linear" method). The Common Market already uses the linear method, but whether it will be absorbed as a GATT technique depends heavily on the decision the U.S. Congress will reach.

Other Trade Factors

It should be kept in mind that U.S. trade policy is really only partially determined by the Trade Agreements Act. Other types of legislation and Government policy affect U.S. trade relations and the world trade picture. Following are just a few examples.

The Buy American Act is a major one. Passed in 1933 to give preference to American bidders for federal business, it did not set the amount of preference American producers were to enjoy, but in practice foreign bidders had to submit prices 25 per cent or more below American quotations to get orders. In December, 1954, President Eisenhower issued an Executive Order that the U.S. may buy abroad if the foreign bid is 6 per cent or more below the U.S. bid. An exception was made for domestic bidders in areas of high unemployment even if their bids were higher than the new standards. Some state governments have statutes patterned after this.

"Ship American" clauses govern some shipping of goods authorized by federal legislation.

The Sugar Act protects domestic producers by establishing country-by-country quotas for sugar exports to the U.S.

Section 22 of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1937 authorizes the President to put quotas on any agricultural product when he finds, through a Tariff Commission investigation, that U.S. commodities are hurt by imports—whether or not there has been a tariff reduction. Also, if imports of the finished product are materially affecting production of the raw material in the U.S. or sales of raw material to producers of the finished product in the U.S., he may impose a duty or quota. This section has been used in the cotton and textile problem.

The 1961 foreign aid authorization act prohibited foreign aid loans to productive enterprises in direct competition with U.S. enterprises unless the recipient country agreed to limit exports to the U.S. to 20 per cent of the total annual production of the enterprise. The U.S. President was permitted to waive the prohibition for national security reasons.

The U.S. And Trade

Thanks in large part to the liberal trade policies pursued by the U.S. since 1945, U.S. exports in 1960 reached $20,300,000,000 and imports $14,652,000,000, for a favorable trade balance of $5,648,000,000. Both imports and exports about doubled in value in the postwar period, with the increase in imports slightly higher than in exports. A look at the breakdown of exports by commodity groups shows that textile and mineral exports decreased slightly, while machinery, vehicle and chemical exports about doubled. On the import side, textile imports increased slightly, metals and manufactures (excluding machinery and vehicles) almost tripled, and machinery and vehicles increased tenfold.

Taken in terms of the Gross National Product, U.S. exports represented about 3.9 per cent of the GNP in 1960 and imports about 2.9 per cent. While these are small percentages—and are smaller than those of most major trading nations — as part of a GNP of $500 billion they involve substantial volume, and American exports account for more than one-sixth of the world commerce.

Balance of Payments. The U.S. balance of trade is of major importance to the nation in terms of its balance of payments and the possible threat to its dollar stability or gold reserves from a large payments deficit. The balance of payments is the difference between all U.S. dollar payments abroad and dollar receipts from foreign sources. Dollar payments abroad are caused by imports, foreign aid, overseas military spending, spending abroad by American tourists, and other outlays. Dollar earnings from abroad come from export sales, foreign investments in the U.S., income from American investments abroad and other earnings abroad by the Government and American citizens.

The U.S. has recently been running a deficit in its balance of payments: in 1959 American payments exceeded receipts by $3.7 billion, in 1960 by $3.9 billion, and the deficit is estimated at $1.5 billion for 1961, counting special prepayments of debts by foreigners. The large payments deficits caused jittery nerves in 1960 and early 1961 because they represented claims which the foreigners holding the dollars could make against U.S. gold, which is sold for $35 an ounce. U.S. Government gold stocks decreased by $1.1 billion in 1959 and by $1.7 billion in 1960. Through November 1961, they had dropped by $791 million to just below $17 billion—the lowest level in 22 years. Several administrative and legislative actions were taken in 1961 to stem the payments deficit and boost international confidence in the dollar.

World Trade Picture

While the U.S. volume of imports and exports was rising during the postwar period, dramatic changes in trade patterns were occurring elsewhere in the world —changes which the Kennedy Administration and its supporters in the trade debate say require re-evaluation of U.S. foreign economic policy and revision of U.S. methods as a world trader. Under Secretary of State George Ball Nov. 1, 1961, told the National Foreign Trade Convention in New York: "We are coming to the close of a familiar era in our world trading relations and entering another that is not familiar at all. Some see this new phase as filled with opportunity and challenge. Some, on the other hand, are apprehensive. But few question the proposition that pervasive change will be the dominant characteristic of the years that lie ahead."

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Children Should Write Parents Each Week

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. "I'm a widow, 68, and write faithfully twice a week to each of my three children now living in other parts of the country. I keep reminding them that I expect a letter every week without fail, but sometimes two or three weeks pass before they write. They say they love me but I feel they don't show it. Is it asking too much to expect a weekly letter?"

A. No, but children often fail to live up to our expectations. It's much wiser for older parents to build an independent life for themselves so they won't be emotionally dependent on their offspring. Join clubs, get acquainted with your neighbors, take a more active part in your church, and learn two or three new arts and crafts. And consider yourself fortunate to hear from them as often as you do.

Q. "I was shocked when I read in your column recently that New York City pays families $150 per person to take older people without funds into their homes under the foster care plan. I've been a hard-working, respectable citizen all my life and, despite my thrift, I am scrimping along on a retirement income totaling $135 a month. It galls me to think that reliefers in New York get a handout exceeding the amount I've managed to save for my retirement years."

A. It's sad when folks reach old age in frail health and without funds. But when this happens cities have no alternative but to provide these folks with adequate food and shelter. In some cities, such as New York, it has been found cheaper to board these indigent elders with private families than to maintain them in costly city hospitals or institutions. It is easy to understand your ire, but don't let it get you down. Take pride in your independence and remind yourself how fortunate you are to be on your own and beholden to no one for your support.

Q. "You wrote recently about a women who complained that her retired husband talks too much. Now isn't that too bad. The poor man wants to talk but his wife — who has been supported by him all these years — can't bear to listen. My husband is retired, too, and does a lot of talking which might prove irritating if I used no self-control. But I don't mind. I just think about all the widows up the street and start counting my blessings. When a man wants to talk, the least a wife can do is listen. You won't find me complaining. I'm glad to have a husband."

A. Lots of older folk add to their misery by griping about their mates. But those who tap the real satisfactions of retirement are those who have adjusted to the foibles of their mates, who make every effort to cater to the other's whims and peculiarities, and who are wise enough to realize that it's pretty wonderful, having a partner—gabby though he may be—to share one's retirement years.

Q. "What is the exact cause of senility?"

A. The exact cause isn't known. But Dr. Louis Orr of the American Medical Association has said, "One of the major causes of premature and preventable senility is simple monotony, inactivity, and boredom."

If you would like a booklet "Starting a Golden Age Club" write to this column c/o (this paper) enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents to cover handling costs.

DREW PEARSON

Politicians Jumpy Over Goldfine

WASHINGTON — The confessions of Miss Mildred Paperman, secretary of the vicuna coat-giving Bernard Goldfine, have been kept closer to Bobby Kennedy's chest than his undershirt. The attorney general has had a battery of FBI agents checking Miss Paperman's statement, and a couple of dozen Internal Revenue agents have been summoned to Boston from various other areas to work on the case.

What they are probing is whether Miss Paperman is correct that various political bigwigs received money from Goldfine and whether they filed these gifts as income.

One of those being scrutinized is Sherman Adams, former "imprudent" assistant to President Eisenhower, who, according to Miss Paperman, received considerably more than a vicuna coat, a rug, and free hotel accommodations at Boston's Sheraton Plaza hotel. Agents have also been probing reported income to the relatives of ex-Gov. Foster Furcolo, Massachusetts Democrat; the late Sen. Styles Bridges; and Sen. Norris Cotton, attorney for Goldfine.

This column, checking on the manner in which the Boston industrialist placed his money with people where it would count, interviewed John B. Powers, Democratic bigwig in the Massachusetts legislature. According to the Paperman statement, he had received funds from Goldfine through the Kirby Advertising Agency.

Joseph Kirby, head of the ad agency, said he had been directed by government investigators not to discuss any payments. Powers, however, was more frank. He told Jack Anderson, who went to Boston to check the matter, that Goldfine had contributed $11,900 to his 1955 campaign for mayor and that it was handled by the Kirby Agency. The money, he said, was for legitimate campaign expenses.

Powers also admitted that he had received money from Goldfine during his 1959 campaign for mayor, but the money was received direct, not through the Kirby Agency.

Powers did not want to go into details on how the money was used, but insisted it had all been spent on campaign expenses, though he said he had made no accounting of it.

"He would occasionally give you $1,000 or $2,000," said Powers. "He gave it to you. If you lost, it was just one of those things."

The money came directly from Goldfine, not Miss Paperman.

"She never gave me 14 cents in her life," said the Democratic boss of the Massachusetts legislature.

Powers explained that the loser in the Boston mayoralty race doesn't have to file his campaign contributions and expenses.

"There is no violation to the loser," he said.

THE TALK AROUND TOWN

We may be crowding things a bit, but we like to think that January is half gone, and that spring is just around the corner, and this in spite of weather forecasts.

But we've been talking to this one and that one, and it appears that Lincoln really will be humming, come April.

You already know, of course, that the Nebraska Art Association is not having its usual spring show. If you are wondering why, we can tell you. The Morrill Hall Art Galleries are in the process of what Norman Geske terms "house cleaning." That means that the director of the galleries, and his staff, are preparing for spring of 1963—and the opening of Lincoln's magnificent new Sheldon Art Museum.

The Nebraska Art Association is not out of the spring picture, however. It has combined forces with the Lincoln Council of Churches for the symposium of religious arts which will open on April 29, and continue through Sunday, May 13. There will be paintings, sculpture, music and drama, and while the symposium is a unique innovation as far as Lincoln is concerned, its worth is indesputable.

* * *

There also is talk this morning of the Junior League Children's Theater which also is an April event. The League has a new angle, too—the performances, to be given between the dates of April 9, and April 14, will be presented at the Stuart Theater. Incidentally, we hear that the League's regional director, Mrs. Wayne Van Fleet of Denver, will be a Lincoln guest in March.

* * *

Also on the calendar for Spring is the Delta Delta Delta tea-tasting party which aroused so much enthusiasm when the sorority launched the idea a couple of years ago. We understand that the forthcoming event will surpass the first event.

So much for spring and back to the cold, cold world of January.

Someone told us that the Long Shot Club (amateur investors) had a meeting last Sunday evening when the members were the supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cather.

* * *

A glance at the late month agenda tells us that the 100 Club has a party planned for Saturday, Jan. 27, at Hotel Cornhusker.

Planning the dinner dance details and decor is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dort, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Lester M. Buckley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. James Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Barney, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Peterson and Dr. and Mrs. LaVerne Pfeifer.

Announce Wedding Attendants

Revealing plans this morning for her late-winter wedding is Miss Linda Levenick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Levenick of Des Moines, who has chosen Friday, Feb. 2, as the date for her marriage to Reginald Ronald Eklund.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 8 o'clock in the evening at Westminster United Presbyterian Church in Des Moines.

The University of Nebraska coed, who is a member of Kappa Delta sorority, has chosen Miss Myrna McKinney of Des Moines, as her maid of honor, and her bridesmaid will be Miss Holly Eklund of Gresham, sister of the bridegroom-elect. Miss Mary Ann Hummel of Los Angeles, and Miss Jacqueline Pierson of Wilmar, Minn., will light the chancel candles.

Serving as best man will be Jack Walker of McCook, and seating the guests will be Charles Witte, Omaha; Ronald Olson, Kearney; and Monte Hickel, Stromsburg.

Mr. Eklund, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Eklund of Gresham, also is a student at the University of Nebraska and a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

A pre-nuptial courtesy honoring a January bride-to-be, Miss Penny Anne Gans, will be held on Sunday, Jan. 21, when Mrs. Robert Schram, Miss Kolleen Kelly, Miss Susan Metzler and Miss Selma Liesche will be co-hostesses at the home of Miss Gans's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Gans, in Millard. The guests have been invited for an informal afternoon during which a miscellaneous shower will be presented to the honoree.

The wedding of Miss Gans and William E. Wren of Lincoln will take place on Saturday evening, Jan. 27, at the Resurrection Lutheran Church in Gretna. The bride-elect is a former student at Omaha University, and her fiance attends the University of Nebraska.

A February bride-elect is Miss Kathryn Ann Bork, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Bork, whose betrothal to Kenneth L. Holm was announced recently.

Miss Bork and her fiance have chosen Saturday, Feb. 17, as the date for their wedding, which will take place at Immanuel Lutheran Church.

Attending her sister as maid of honor will be Miss Carol Jean Bork, and the matron of honor will be Mrs. Dennis Wieting. Miss Marilyn Fox will be the bridesmaid, and the flower girl will be Miss Kathy Schleich.

Lighting the candles for the 7:30 o'clock evening service will be Miss Diane Holm of Chandler, Minn., sister of the bridegroom-elect, and his brother, David Holm, will be ringbearer.

Adrian Smith of Chandler, Minn., will serve as best man, and seating the guests will be Mr. Holm's brother, Robert Holm of Chandler; Stephen Bork and Thomas Bork, brothers of the bride-to-be, and James Mankowski.

Announcing the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Norma Thomas of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Thomas of Burchard, whose marriage to James Novak will be solemnized on Saturday, Jan. 27, at St. Mary's Cathedral.

Mrs. C. W. Koch will attend her sister as matron of honor for the 10:30 o'clock morning wedding, and the bridesmatrons will be Mrs. Donald Scheibe of St. Louis, also a sister of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. Donna J. Davis. Miss Patricia Kelly will be the bridesmaid.

Serving his brother as best man will be Francis Novok, and the corps of ushers will include Mr. Novok's brothers, Fred Novok and Henry Novok, and C. W. Koch. Douglas Thomas will be ringbearer.

PTA Meeting

The January meeting of Merle Beattie PTA will be held Tuesday afternoon in the school auditorium at 1:30 o'clock.

Guest speakers will be Miss Elva McFee, coordinator of art, and Miss Elizabeth Wright, coordinator of music, for the Lincoln Public Schools. Mothers of 4th graders will be hostesses for the coffee hour.

Board To Meet

A meeting of the board of the Lincoln General Hospital Auxiliary will be held next Tuesday morning, at 9:30 o'clock. The meeting will be held in the hospital dining room.

Promise Made--Promise Kept

In these uncertain and perilous times, it's nice to know that plans made by one couple 25 years ago really will be carried out without a hitch.

Seems that at the time of their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Tennis Rapp promised themselves a delayed honeymoon trip to Hawaii on their 25th wedding anniversary. The anniversary arrived with 1962, so on Jan. 20, Mr. and Mrs. Rapp, bag and baggage, and travel folders, will take off for the promised land. Furthermore, they will be accompanied by their son, Darryl, a Lincoln High School senior.

The "honeymooners", who plan to be gone a month, were honored at a bon voyage party on Friday evening when a group of their friends entertained at Cotner Terrace.

Among the guests are (from the left) seated, Mrs. Norman Judds, Mrs. Henry Maler, Mrs. Rapp, Mr. Rapp, Mrs. Harold Bastron, Mrs. H. H. Wichman, Mrs. Donald A. Tillman, (standing,) Mr. Judds, Mr. Maler, Mr. Bastron, Mr. Wichman, and Mr. Tillman.

Madam Chairman

Lancaster County Republicans Women's Club, 2 o'clock, National Bank of Commerce.

We Hear That

Arriving in Lincoln on Friday to be the weekend guests of Dr. and Mrs. Carol E. Brown will be Dr. and Mrs. Browns' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wohlford of Appleton, Wis., formerly of Lincoln. The visitors will return home on Sunday.

Club Program

At the monthly meeting of the UNI Extension Club, held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ray Craig, reports were given by Mrs. Charles Wilson on recent Achievement Day activities, and by Mrs. Craig on Civil Defense.

A program on, "Care of Carpets and Rugs", was given after which the members contributed to the Pennies for Friendship fund, Kellogg Center and the March of Dimes.

Mrs. Burdette Jones assisted Mrs. Craig as hostess.

The club will meet at the home of Mrs. K. L. Braun on Feb. 8.

Fun News In Suburbia

What with taxes and the bitter cold weather, you would think that activity in suburbia would be at a minimum this week, but not so. As usual, there are newcomers to introduce, and the residents, with reserves of energy, manage to keep the social ball rolling even if it's only a gathering to help push a neighbor's car out of the snow.

MEADOW LANE

Activity certainly has not let up this week end at the home of Maj. and Mrs. A. P. Samuels. Last night, Maj. an Mrs. Samuels joined Maj. and Mrs. Frank Goetz to attend a party held at the home of Maj. and Mrs. A. D. Minnick at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Then this evening Maj. and Mrs. Samuels will be host and hostess at an informal gathering at their home. They have invited Capt. and Mrs. Ray Leomazzie for an evening of bridge.

And there are newcomers to mention this morning. Jan. 2 was moving day for Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Welborn who are settled in their new home at 947 Colony Lane.

Former residents of Roswell, N.M., Mr. Welborn was transferred to Lincoln by the government with which he is employed as a soil conservation engineer.

Incidentally, Mrs. Welborn, who has never driven a car in snow before, is singing the praises of Lincoln and its hospitable citizens one of whom (a stranger and a woman) helped her push her car out of a snowdrift.

Also new to Lincoln and Meadow Lane are Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Smith who did their moving on Christmas Day. To move on Dec. 25 was not in their original plan, however, but it seems that the moving van delayed by the snowstorm in Des Moines, Ia., arrived like Santa Claus on Christmas, so that was that.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have three children, five year-old Reve, three year-old Leslie Jean, and nine month-old Ford. The family formerly resided in North Granby, Conn., and the Smiths' present address is 1330 Carlos Drive.

EASTBOROUGH

There is a newcomer in Eastborough also but this new arrival appeared on the birth record not the moving record. He is Bradley Scott Branum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Branum, who arrived on Friday, Dec. 29. Young Mr. Scott has two brothers, Larry Alan and Johnnie, and a sister, Theresa.

Mrs. Branum is the former Alma Reinick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Reinick. The paternal grandmother is Mrs. Ora Branum of San Jose, Calif. Mrs. Branum, by the way, was here to welcome Bradley Scott as she arrived before Christmas to spend the holidays and left to return home on Friday, Jan. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Reed have been busy entertaining this past week end.

On Friday, Jan. 5, Mrs. Reed was hostess at her home at a coffee in honor of her husband's mother, Mrs. A. W. Reed, who was celebrating her birthday. The eight guests included feminine members of the Reed family.

On Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Reed had more guests. Mr. Reed's cousin, Max Reed, and Mrs. Reed, and their son, Steve, of Rt. 3, spent the evening visiting.

And on to the future, and the plans for Sunday morning when, weather permitting, Mr. and Mrs. Reed and their children, Barbara, Cindy and Diane, will travel to Nebraska City to spend the day visiting Mrs. Reed's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garber.

CHATTER in the CORRIDOR

BY MOLLY DOW

We are all quite proud that Southeast was named the 1961 Grand Champions of Sports by the Omaha World Herald. Lincoln High has had this award for ten consecutive years.

We received most of our points from two state championships in baseball and three in swimming. We had an easy victory of 50½ points while the runner-up school, Omaha Benson, had 37½ points. Way to go, boys.

Bill Landis was named the Southeast winner of the Regents Scholarship. Seventy-six other LSE pupils who took the test were alternate winners. This means they scored as high or higher than the lowest winner in the state.

Congratulations to the new members of the Southeast Clarion staff. They have completed one semester of journalism and are ready to get right down to business. I might add they outnumber the seniors.

Nancy Cowles certainly deserves mention. She won a $50 scholarship by placing second in the Elk's Youth Leadership Contest. She was given the award January 3 at the Elk's Meeting. To receive this she made a fourteen-ounce notebook including her grades, activities and letters of recommendation.

Family Features

Dear Abby

He'll Lose Bad Words

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago I left home (at the age of 20) to have a baby. (I was not married.) No one here knows about it. I passed myself off as a widow and raised my son alone. He is a fine well-adjusted lad. His father was a married man from whom I neither expected nor received any financial help in raising my boy. I have a very good position and have made a good name for myself in my community where I am known as "Mrs. So and So."

A prominent, successful man has become my admirer and he wants to marry me. I know I will have to tell him the truth about myself, but what about other people? There might be curiosity and probing about my "former husband," his family, etc. Would I sign my marriage certificate "Mrs. So and So," although I am not in fact legally that person?

MRS. SO and SO

DEAR MRS. SO and SO: First, tell the man who wants to marry you about your past. If he loves you, it won't matter, and he will spare you the legal red-tape.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor has a four-year-old girl and I have a four-year-old boy. They play together all the time. The little neighbor girl swears like a trooper, and now my son has started to pick it up. You never heard such language from kids!

I don't believe in trying to discipline other people's children, but I don't know how else to stop her. Don't tell me to talk to the parents because I have heard this child cuss in front of her parents and they just laugh and think it's cute. It isn't possible to keep my child away from the playmate next door, so what's the answer?

CUSSED OUT

DEAR CUSSED: Tell your neighbors how your son has picked up some purple profanity somewhere and how it disturbs you. If they don't get the idea, let it go. Awkward though it may be, your four-year-old will survive the wickedness of this four-year-old temptress. And so will you.

☆ ☆ ☆

CONFIDENTIAL TO CHICAGOAN: Only two types of men play fast and loose with women before marriage or after. The immature and the effeminate. A mature man who is sure of his own masculinity doesn't have to keep proving that he is a lady-killer.

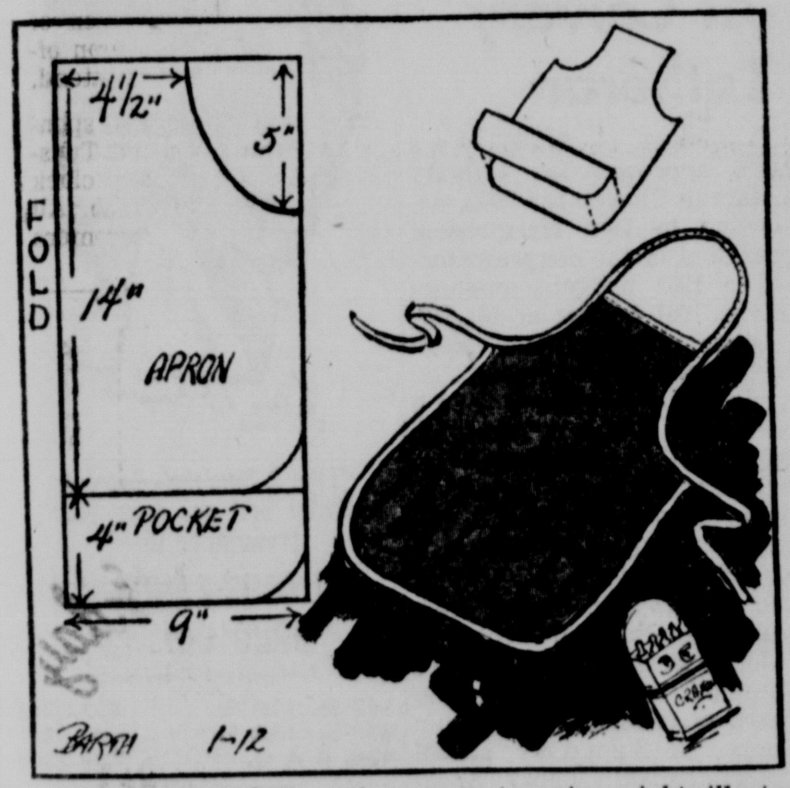
☆ ☆ ☆

Are things rugged? For a personal reply, write to Abby, c/o this paper, and don't forget a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It Seams To Me

Pretty Protection

Patricia Scott



How about making a darling gift for that little boy or girl who likes to play with crayons and coloring books? Since this apron protects clothing the mother of the budding artist will love you dearly for it, too.

An 18-inch square of washable fabric is all that is needed. You may be able to make the apron from remnants of denim or any other heavy cotton fabric. If there are two children in the family, a half a yard will make an apron for each.

Your gift will be even more exciting if you wrap a coloring book and a box of crayons with it. This will surely bring squeals of delight from the child who receives it.

You'll need: 18-inch square of blue denim or heavy cotton; 4 yards of red bias binding.

To Make:

1. Fold the square in half so that it measures 9" x 18", as shown in the illustration.

2. Follow the measurements in the diagram, shaping the bib, armhole and curve of the bottom edge. Cut the 4" x 9" pocket separately.

3. On the top edge of the pocket, turn under ½ inch for the hem and make two rows of top stitching.

4. Pin the raw bottom edge of the pocket to the bottom edge of the apron with the raw edges even. The wrong side of the pocket is placed on the right side of the apron (see top right illustration).

5. Stitch across the pocket and apron, one inch from the bottom edge. Stitch along the outside curved edge of the pocket close to the raw edges.

6. Bind the top edge of the bib and the sides and lower edge of the apron, catching both pocket and apron.

7. Take the remaining strip of bias binding and stitch together, lengthwise, 12 inches of the binding's edges to make one end of the tie. Where the 12 inches end, start binding the apron at left underarm up to the bib edge. Then stitch together the two edges of the binding for 14 inches to make the neckband. From the point where the 14-inch neckband ends, start binding the right underarm and end it with another 12-inch tie. For faster application, use the bias binder machine attachment.

8. Stitch crayon compartments one inch wide from the top, to the stitching line you made one inch from the bottom edge. To reinforce, back stitch at the beginning and the end of each row of stitching.

9. For a cute personalized effect, you can hand or machine embroider the child's name on the apron's bib.

Miss Scott is always glad to hear from her readers, and whenever possible will use their questions in her column, but because of the great volume of mail received daily, she cannot answer individual letters.

WHY GROW OLD

Self-Improvement

Josephine Lowman

You can lose 20 pounds in eight weeks if you follow the Marathon. If you would like the Marathon booklet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. The exercise pictured here involves rolling from side to side to reduce the hips

For many women my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon is as much a sign of the new year as a robin is of spring. Each year they take this time to recondition their figures by following the Marathon routines.

So, welcome on board repeaters! Welcome, also are the newcomers to the fun! Every year more than 100,000 women join this program to see how much they can improve themselves in eight weeks. The majority wish to lose weight, although others want to lose in inches only, or to improve the condition of the skin or hair. Some want to improve their health generally, or to rid themselves of stiff joints or other annoying conditions.

Women are so busy caring for and thinking of their families that they very often neglect themselves. Why not concentrate on YOU for just this next eight weeks, anyway? That is the length of my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon which I'm offering this week. Thousands of women are joining this adventure in self-improvement.

If you are overweight, you will have to count calories. You also would profit by exercise. If you are the correct weight but wish to increase or decrease some one measurement, special exercises are your answer.

Here are a few more hints to help you slim down.

Keep a pad in the kitchen and in your pocketbook so that you can keep track of your calorie intake.

Use herbs in cooking for seasoning rather than heavy cream sauces.

Boil, bake or broil rather than fry foods. Frying zooms the calorie count.

If you like scrambled eggs, cook them in a double boiler.

Make up your mind that you will stay with Marathon for eight weeks. A week passes so rapidly that eight will whizz by before you know it. If you would like to lose 20 pounds in eight weeks, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Neb.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♠
Pass	3♠	Pass	4♠

Opening lead — four of diamonds.

This hand demonstrates exceptionally fine card play. South got to four spades and West led a diamond. East took the jack with the ace and returned a low club, dummy winning the trick with the ten.

The situation did not look promising. Declarer realized that if he attempted the spade finesse it would pretty surely lose. East had passed in third position, and since the play up to this point indicated he had two aces, it became very unlikely that he would have passed originally if he also had the king of spades.

Since a heart loser appeared inevitable barring some such holding as a singleton king, the contract seemed destined to fail.

But it occurred to South that if West had the K-x of spades the contract might still be made. Acting on this assumption, he returned a club from dummy at trick three.

East took the ace and returned a diamond to the king. Declarer now played a spade to the ace, cashed the king of clubs, and then continued with the queen. His purpose was to run West out of clubs and prepare for an eventual endplay.

When West followed to the fourth club, declarer ruffed in dummy with the queen, consistent with the theory that West had to have the K-x of spades for him to make the hand.

The queen held and South now made his bid for fame and fortune by returning a spade. This passed off pleasantly enough when East played the ten and West the king.

The contract was now in the bag. West was on lead and could make no safe return. A heart lead would be fatal because it would permit South to make the queen, while a diamond return would allow dummy to ruff as declarer shed his heart loser. So South made four hearts.

The underlying principle which South applied so aptly to the hand—that he could make the contract only if certain conditions existed — paid good dividends in the end.

Nebraska City Sewage Plant Date Set

The State Water Pollution Control Council Friday gave Nebraska City a March 9 deadline to set up a definite time-table for the construction of its proposed sewage treatment plant.

Sanitation Division Chief T. A. Filipi said if the southeast community waits much longer, action could be taken by Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri or Kansas forcing the city to move ahead.

Any one of the 4 states could ask the U.S. surgeon general to order the city to act due to its continued pollution of the Missouri River, Filipi said.

On March 9, the next scheduled meeting of the council, Nebraska City will be asked to present plans showing a definite site for the plant, its size, when bids will be let, and when the city council will be able to pass a bond ordinance setting up a service charge for the facility.

Bids Next Year

The council action was taken after a Nebraska City delegation told the state Friday that May 1 was the earliest possible date for passage of the bond ordinance, and that bids probably would not be let until January or February of next year.

Also to be investigated before the March date is the question of whether the project will come under the provisions of the Davis-Bacon wage law setting wage scales for some federal aid projects.

The question arose after the city was granted an additional increase of $62,000 over the original grant of $117,223. Since the additional funds were granted after the Davis-Bacon law became applicable to such projects, there is a possibility the entire Nebraska City plant will be affected by it.

Harold Fouts, a member of the city's Board of Public Works, told the council he would favor giving back the extra $62,000 rather than see the project under Davis-Bacon.

An opinion on the matter will be sought from the surgeon general.

Gov. Frank Morrison met with the council shortly after the Nebraska City delegation left and said he supported the council's taking a more aggressive attitude toward cities which are polluting streams with industrial and domestic sewage.

Noting the problems facing some cities in financing, Morrison said, "It's a burden in some instances to finance these projects, but it's also a burden to drive under 65. We have to do it for protection."

Water pollution on the Missouri River is one of the major problems facing the council, Morrison said.

In other action, the council Friday approved priorities for sewage disposal plants in 3 communities. Diller and Marquette were given immediate approval, and Kenesaw was given approval pending availability of funds.

A broad education program to prevent the seepage of nitrates into ground water was proposed to the council by two University of Nebraska officials who related the results of a ground water survey.

Clinton A. Hoover, agronomist, and Paul E. Fischbach, irrigationist, gave the report.

Hoover said 2½ of the samples taken showed high nitrate contents. The State Board of Health has recommened that water with 10 parts of nitrate per million parts of water not be used for infants.

No Adult Problem

In such cases, it has suggested, local health officials should be consulted. Such water presents no problem to adults.

Hoover said other elements found in the water apparently do not present any health problem at the moment.

He said the problem is to find out how nitrates get into the water used for both irrigation and consumption.

One way is believed to be through leeching in soil, which could be prevented by more efficient irrigation methods, he said.

NU research personnel would like to obtain a grant to conduct further study on the matter, Fischbach said.

The ground water survey already conducted was financed through funds made available by the council which indicated it may be willing to allot additional funds for similar surveys in the future.

Morrison Sets Discussion On Hwy. Dept.

Gov. Frank Morrison said Friday he will meet with the Highway Advisory Commission and State Engineer John Hossack Jan. 22 to continue a discussion on his improvement program for the Highway Department.

Morrison met with the commissioners and Hossack Thursday morning to obtain a progress report, but the conference was cut short when the governor had to attend a Pardon Board meeting.

The governor said Hossack gave a "step-by-step report on progress in accomplishing the recommendations made by the Highway Commission last July 24."

Morrison said that "while there were some notable achievements in reorganization made by the state engineer in the last 6 months, there were several areas in the improvement program that should be expedited."

Morrison asked Hossack to speed up the progress in these areas and submit a written report supplementing his oral report given Thursday so that he might have it available before the next meeting with the commission.

Cohen Tax Conviction Is Affirmed

Los Angeles (AP)—A U.S. Appeals Court Friday affirmed Mickey Cohen's income tax conviction and issued an order that may return the dapper ex-gambler to Alcatraz.

At home in Los Angeles, Cohen, who also faces trial on a murder-conspiracy charge, took the setback in stride. "We expected this," he said. "We'll go to the U.S. Supreme Court."

Cohen surrendered early Friday evening and his attorney, A. L. Wirin, said he expected him to be locked up at least a week while Wirin appeals to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas for Cohen's release on $100,000 bail.

Convicted by a U.S. District Court jury in a 42-day trial here, Cohen, 48, was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment and fined $30,000. In the early '50s he served 3½ years in McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary, also for income tax evasion.

This time Cohen contended that much of the money the government termed income actually was gifts.

After Cohen's latest conviction, Judge George H. Boldt ordered him confined to Alcatraz pending his appeal.

Supreme Court Justice Douglas granted Cohen freedom on $100,000 bond Oct. 12 pending Friday's decision by the appeals court.

Cohen is scheduled to go to trial March 5 on a murder-conspiracy charge stemming from the shooting of Jack (The Enforcer) Whalen in a San Fernando Valley restaurant in 1959.

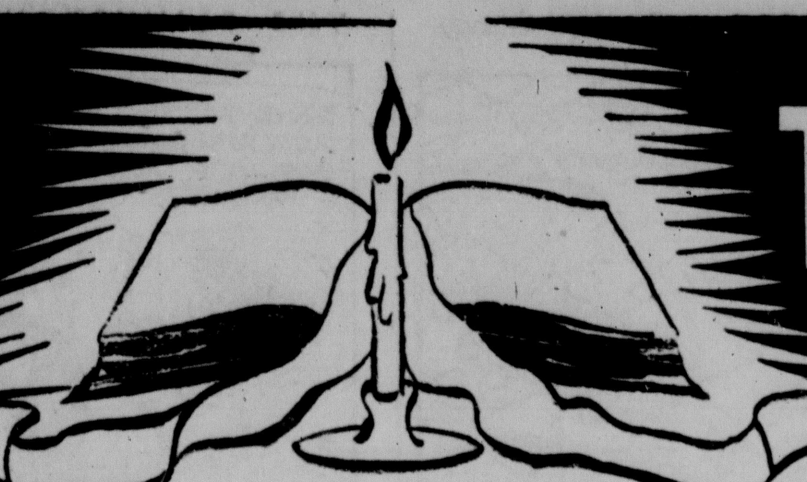
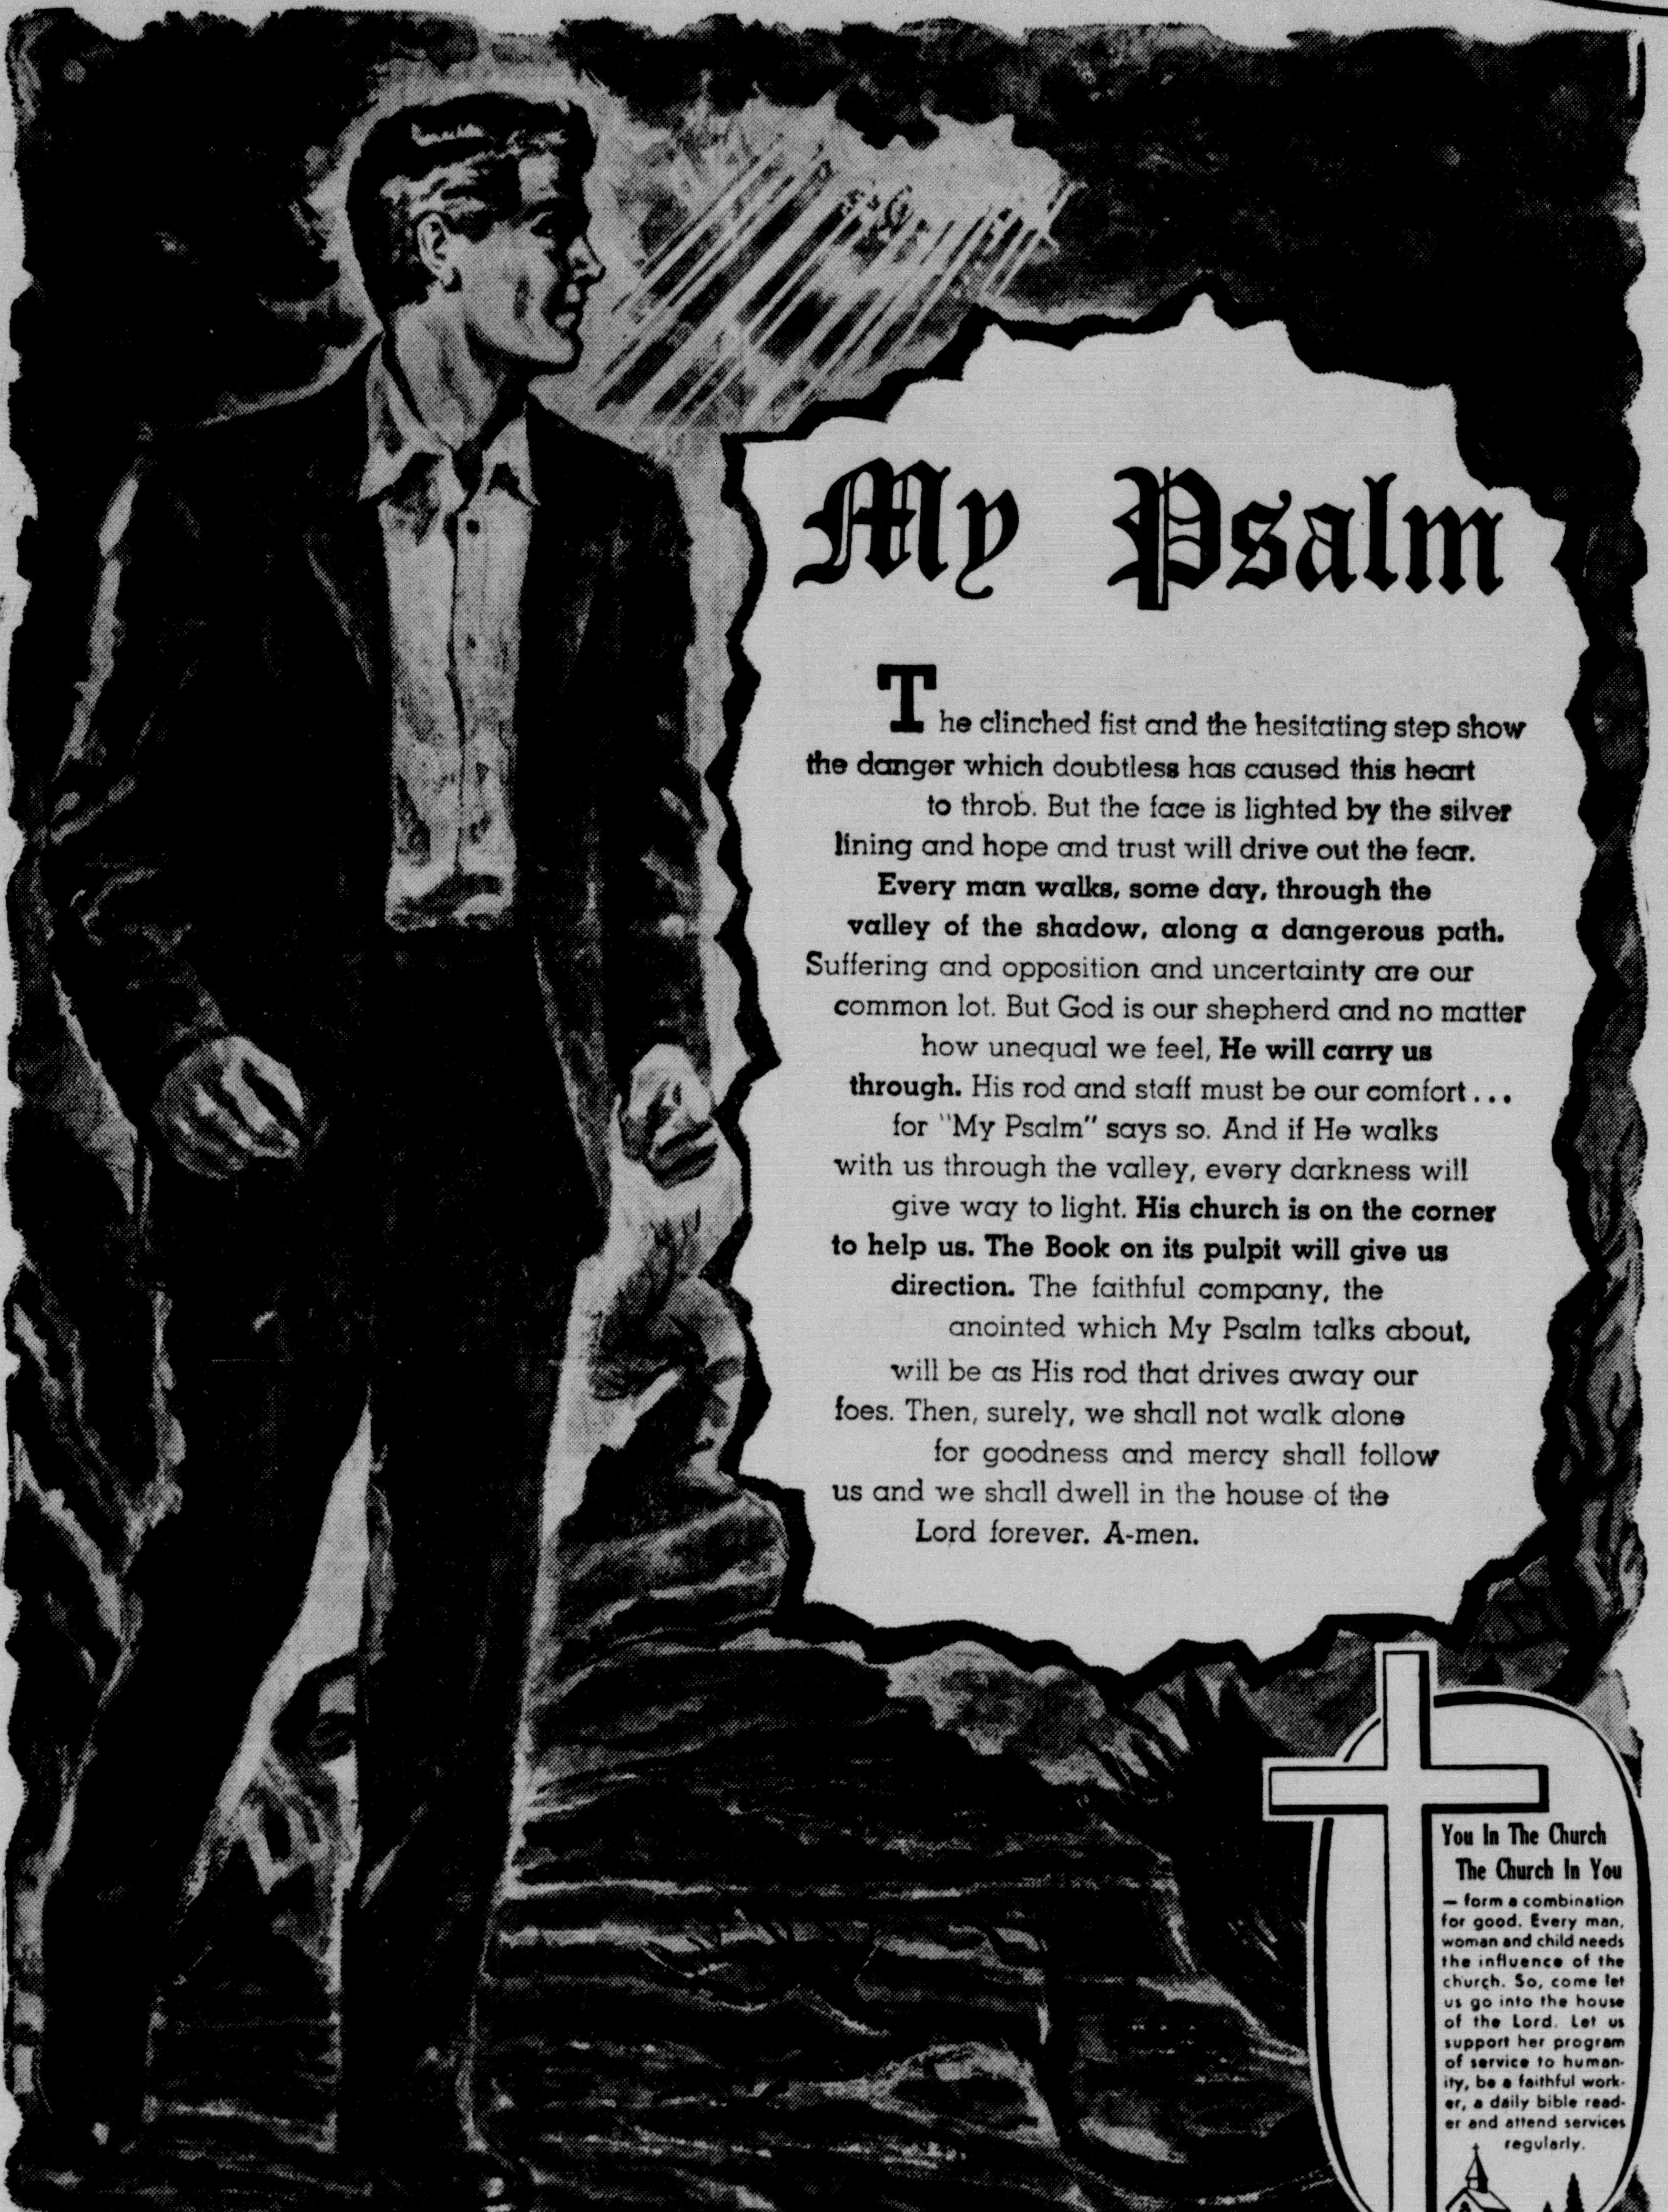
LIGHT OF THE WORLD





My Psalm

The clinched fist and the hesitating step show the danger which doubtless has caused this heart to throb. But the face is lighted by the silver lining and hope and trust will drive out the fear. Every man walks, some day, through the valley of the shadow, along a dangerous path. Suffering and opposition and uncertainty are our common lot. But God is our shepherd and no matter how unequal we feel, He will carry us through. His rod and staff must be our comfort . . . for "My Psalm" says so. And if He walks with us through the valley, every darkness will give way to light. His church is on the corner to help us. The Book on its pulpit will give us direction. The faithful company, the anointed which My Psalm talks about, will be as His rod that drives away our foes. Then, surely, we shall not walk alone for goodness and mercy shall follow us and we shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever. A-men.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. 'Li'l Fitz' Sparks 'Bolts Home 52-48 In Thriller

. . . FINAL TOSSES ICE GAME

By DON SUMMERSIDE
Star Sports Writer

In a whirlwind finish that left the Pius X gymnasium in a state of pandemonium, little (5-8) Pat Fitzpatrick proved to have one of the few cool heads as he calmly sank 3 clutch free throws in the final seconds to give the Thunderbolts a 52-48 basketball victory over never-say-die Central Catholic of Grand Island Friday night.

Trailing by 11 points with 5 minutes to play in the final stanza, the Crusaders began a valiant comeback with the aid of a full-court press and the fine shooting of Tom Woitaszewski.

A one-point deficit with 24 seconds remaining was the best they could do, however, before Fitzpatrick canned the decisive points.

The loss dropped the Crusaders from the unbeaten ranks after 6 consecutive victories and boosted Pius X above the .500 mark to a 3-2 record.

Mechanical errors, the majority of them in the bad passing category, haunted the Crusaders throughout the contest and were a major factor in their trailing by 7 points at the end of the first quarter.

The Thunderbolts quickly increased the lead to 13 points early in the second period, hitting 4 jumpers in a row before cooling off.

Bob Tesmer, 5-8 guard, then led Central Catholic on a hot streak of its own and garnered 6 quick pointers as the Crusaders pulled to within 4 points at the halftime break.

Passing woes again struck Central in the 3rd period, giving the Thunderbolts many more offensive opportunities and enabling them to extend their margin to 38-31 at the close of the quarter.

The last period was a frantic one, with a good deal of free throw chances for each team, and a fair amount of ragged play.

Fitzpatrick's opportunity for heroics came when he was fouled in the backcourt by Tesmer. It was Tesmer's 5th of the game and his resultant protest brought about a technical foul; giving Fitzpatrick an extra chance to ice the game, which he did.

Fitzpatrick and Dave Minick led the offensive charge for the Thunderbolts, each scoring 18 points.

Woitaszewski, a 5-11 junior forward, tallied 20 points and high game honors for the losing Crusader cause.

ORWIG EARNS HONOR

Chicago (AP)—Bill Orwig, Indiana University athletic director, Friday won the national Pop Warner award for the football "huddle prayer of the year."

The award to Orwig, former Nebraska athletic director, was made at a luncheon of the American Football Coaches' Association.

Orwig's prayer reads:

"Dear Lord, as we huddle here,
Help us all to see it clear
That playing hard and playing fair,
Is what we are asking everywhere.
And as we go forth to play the game,
In sports or life, it's all the same,
We hope to win like all the rest,
But, especially, help us, Lord, to do our best."

Orwig became Hoosier athletic director after the school was placed under a 4-year probation two years ago for illegal athletic practices.

Patterson Tells JFK Next Opponent's Name

. . . FLOYD WON'T TELL NEWSMEN

Washington (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson let President Kennedy in on a secret Friday.

Patterson told newsmen he let the President know who his next opponent will be.

"I told him, but it's not for the press," Patterson said.

Sonny Liston has been mentioned as Patterson's most probable next opponent, but the champion refused to be pinned down to him. He mentioned several other possibilities.

For the press, he had only the information that he would defend his title in June in some large city. He mentioned New York, Chicago and California, without saying which city in that state.

The president felt Patterson's arm, and, according to the champion, commented that Patterson looked to be in pretty good shape.

"Which I am," Patterson commented.

If he wins his next bout, Patterson said, he plans to go to Sweden for a series of exhibitions for various charities.

Patterson visited the White House in connection with Big Brother Week, and plans to attend a dinner here Jan. 23 honoring John B. Duncan, a District of Columbia commissioner, for his work in combatting juvenile delinquency.

Patterson related to Kennedy how he is financing Patterson House in New York to help boys who have been released from correctional institutions.

"As you all know, I was down myself," Patterson said.

Later, Patterson called on the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. Again he turned aside newsmen's questions about whom he will meet in his next fight.

"I'll call a press conference when I have something to say about that," he said.

Patterson's meeting with the Attorney General, also in connection with Big Brother Week, was a brief, jocular affair.

Kennedy, a middleweight touch football player, set the tone of the meeting when a photographer trying to pose him with Patterson ordered, "Hold up your right hand so he can pretend he's afraid of it."

"Who?" quipped the Attorney General, "him or me?"

Rockets Blast Links In 62-52 City Show

AVENGE EARLY YEAR SETBACK

. . . RUN RECORD TO 5-2

By MIKE COONEY
Star Sports Writer

Lincoln Northeast jumped back into the state basketball picture Friday night with a convincing 62-52 victory over Lincoln High at the Public Schools Activities Building.

The Rockets, improving with every outing, thus avenged a 58-43 setback at the hands of the Links in December and took the commanding position in the Capital City title chase.

Coach Ed Johnson's charges never were in trouble as they ran their season's record to 5-2 before the overflow throng.

Husky sophomore Jerry Motz and Jon Ogden started the Rockets to victory.

Ogden, a slender 6-footer with springs in his legs, bounced home a jump shot from the corner and dropped a free throw to give Northeast an early 3-0 lead. After Rod Blood tied it with a 3-point play Motz hit from 20-feet then added a fadeaway jumper from underneath, giving Northeast the lead for good.

The Rockets opened an 11-point bulge at halftime with a fine shooting flurry early in the second period. Chuck Squier, Dave Lebsack, and Motz each pushed home two fielders as Northeast opened a 30-14 lead.

Doug LaPage led a Lincoln High rally that closed the gap to 11 at intermission but the Links still had a long way to go.

Coach Alden Johnson's Links abandoned their zone defense midway in the 3rd period and twice cut their deficit to 7 points. But Northeast rallied each time on the shooting of Lebsack and Squier to stay safely out of danger.

Lebsack, showing no signs of the knee trouble that kept him from all first semester games, was the key to the Rocket win. The 6-1 senior played an excellent floor game, shared scoring honors with Squier at 17 points, and combined with Squier and Ogden to wipe everything from the backboards but the dust.

Alvin Tooke put on a fine shooting exhibition — banging home 11 points in the final quarter — to give Northeast faithful some anxious moments in the 4th period. However Tooke's long range sharp shooting wasn't enough to combat the Rocket scoring balance.

The win gave Northeast a 2-1 record in Capital City play. The Rockets can capture the city title by beating Southeast on January 27.

Blair Topples Tutors, 60-56

By TOM HUTSON
Star Sports Writer

University High, plagued by miserable free throw shooting, succumbed to the pressure of a tense battle of unbeaten teams and fell to Blair's hustling Bears, 60-56, at the Uni High gym Friday night.

Rebounds Pay

Blair pulled the see-saw battle out in the final quarter when the Bears' rebounding advantage paid off.

The visitors held a slim 53-51 lead with 3 minutes left to play but scorched 7 straight points to put the Tutors down 60-51 with a minute and a half remaining.

A jump shot by Ross Johnson and a 3-point play by Rick Olson left the Lincoln crew 4 short at the final buzzer.

The big gun for the Bears in the crucial finish was husky 6-2 senior Bob Olson who picked up 3 follow-up shots and a free throw in the final quarter.

Lanky Paul Refsell added 4 free throws in the last stanza to bring his total to 20 points, high for the night.

Lead Vanishes

The Tutors held a 7-point advantage early in the second quarter but a 4 for 14 free throw conversion rate in the 1st half squelched hopes of padding the lead.

Blair fought back to a 30-29 halftime score.

Following intermission, Coach Dale Snook's crew built up a 5-point edge midway in the 3rd quarter, but foul-ridden George Zarins was sorely missed under the boards as the Blair lads grabbed most of the missed shots the remainder of the game.

University High finished with 24 for 52 field goal attempts and 8-21 at the foul line. Blair connected on 23 of 53 tries from the floor but had an advantageous 14-22 accuracy at the free throw stripe.

Rick Olson was the sparkplug for the Tutors cashing in 18 points mainly on long jump shots. Cohort Steve Butts added 12, all from the field.

Coach Jerry Rainforth's Blair team showed balanced scoring with Refsell leading followed by Brent Krantz, Bob Olson and Brian Peterson who each contributed 11 points.

The initial loss for the Tutors left their record at 6-1 while Blair picked up its 5th win without a loss.

Devaney Aide Said 'In' At WU

. . . Eaton 'Set'; Bob Still Waits

Lincoln Star Special

Chicago, Ill. — Lloyd Eaton, assistant to Bob Devaney at Wyoming, will replace Devaney as Cowboy head coach when Devaney moves to Nebraska. This was reported by usually reliable sources Friday in Chicago.

There were other indications that Glenn (Red) Jacoby, athletic director at Wyoming, is going ahead with his search for a head coach to replace Devaney, who as yet hasn't been released from his contract.

Nebraska's athletic director Tippy Dye said he had nothing new to report on the situation Friday and Devaney was not available for comment.

Should Eaton get the Wyoming job, it would mean he and Devaney would probably split the present Cowboy assistants, some going with Devaney and the others remaining at Wyoming.

Devaney has already said Cletus Fischer will remain on the Cornhusker staff and there is a good chance George Kelly will also be retained.

But the matter of Devaney's release hasn't gotten any farther.

It's still a wait until Feb. 2 unless the Wyoming board of trustees gives in and takes a telephonic poll earlier than that date.

Just what the results of such a poll will be are not known. Most people in collegiate circles feel Devaney will be given the release after a reprimand from the board.

Others believe the Wyoming group will hold firm to keep Devaney, in which case Devaney has already declared he will abide by the decision of the group.

Nevertheless, Devaney may stop off in Lincoln on his way back to Laramie from the American Football Coaches Association convention here.

He already has one of his assistants on duty in Lincoln.

Dye was not certain as to his plans when the convention ends.

—BIG 8 LEAD AT STAKE—

HUSKERS HOST CU; COULD BE HURTING

Nebraska and Colorado, the only unbeaten teams in the Big 8 Conference basketball race, battle for undisputed first place on the Cornhusker court tonight.

Tipoff time is 8:05 at the Coliseum, where Nebraska hasn't been beaten this year.

Coach Jerry Bush's Huskers are 2-0 in the young Big 8 race, coach Sox Walseth's Buffaloes 1-0.

NU has dropped Kansas 69-67 and Oklahoma 57-56. Colorado's win was a 75-61 rout of conference favorite Kansas State.

Bush figures tonight's clash will be one of the toughest of the year for the Huskers.

"Colorado probably has the best personnel in the league," Bush said Friday. "They've got good size and one of the most improved players in the Big 8 in (Ken) Charlton."

Charlton, 6-6 junior forward, is averaging 22.5 points per game this year and hit 31 as the Buffs downed K-State.

Bush is hopeful his Huskers will be ready, but 4 starters may not be at top speed.

Bush reported Friday that Tom Russell has been bothered by a sore throat, Ivan Grupe has a sore foot, Daryl Petsch has a swollen shooting hand and Bill Bowers has the flu.

Bowers, who entered the Student Health Center Friday afternoon, is the only doubtful starter among the group.

If he's unavailable, Bush will start either 6-8 Bill Vincent or 6-4 Chuck Sladovnik.

Probable Starters

COLORADO	Pos.	NEBRASKA
Gilmore (6-5)	f	(6-7) Russell
Charlton (6-6)	f	(6-5) Grupe

Healthy guard Rex Swett is the other Husker regular.

Colorado starters are expected to be Charlton, Wilkie Gilmore, 6-8 Jim Davis, Eric Lee and Gil Whissen. Wayne Millies (6-5), Mill Mueller (6-6) and Gene Sparks (6-4) are in reserve.

The Buffs are 6-5 overall for the year, Nebraska 6-7.

Tonight's preliminary action, the NU freshmen against the Dental College, gets underway at 5:45.

NU Grapplers Win Again; Beat CU, 19-16

The results:

Islanders Drop SE By 60-53

Lincoln Star Special

Grand Island — Steadier Grand Island survived Lincoln Southeast's occasional offensive spurts here Friday and came off with a 60-53 basketball triumph.

The Islanders led at all quarter stops in picking up their 5th victory in 6 starts this season. Southeast, now 2-5, stayed close most of the way but couldn't overcome a fast GI start.

John Sanders led the way as the Islanders raced off to a 13-5 lead and took a 17-11 first quarter margin.

House Afire

Southeast's Bill House popped 12 points in the second period to pull the Knights back into contention, but GI led 28-25 at the intermission.

Balanced scoring from Sanders, Bill Marshall and Tom Millsap kept the Islanders on top in the second half.

Southeast pulled within 5 points at 48-53 with 2:04 left in the game, but Millsap hit two free throws and Sanders scored on a fast break to send GI home free.

Millsap hit 18 points to lead scorers. Greg Hedberg got 15 and House 13 for Southeast, which was plagued throughout the game with 30 fouls.

22 of 41

GI cashed only 22 of 41 charity attempts, but the total made the difference.

SE's unbeaten reserve team won the opener 64-58 over the GI seconds.

Wilkinson Mentioned For Negotiator Duty

Oakland, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Tribune said Friday Sen. Clair Engle (D-Calif) has asked the White House to assign Charles (Bud) Wilkinson, director of the President's Council On Youth Fitness, to observe and report implications of the NCAA-AAU struggle for control of amateur athletics.

The Senator said he believes it may be necessary for President Kennedy to appoint a negotiator and pointed out that the U.S.-Russian meet could be dramatically affected if separate federation and AAU meets are held.

Goalby Is Leader In San Diego

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Playing in weather that ranged from excellent to miserable, golfer Bob Goalby retained a 2-stroke lead over the field at the midway point Friday in the $25,000 San Diego Open.

Goalby broke par by only one stroke with a 70, but thanks to his first round he finished with a 36-hole total of 135. The personable, 30-year-old described his round as erratic, but the weather was even more freakish.

For the second day the start of play was delayed more than an hour because the greens were too frozen.

The skies were bright blue and the air brisk but late in the afternoon heavy clouds formed. Among those caught in the gathering gloom and cold of dusk was Mike Souchak. He had a chance to threaten Goalby's lead but finished with a 72 for 139.

Auto owners parked near the 18th green were asked to turn on their lights to help the last golfers find the way home.

At the windup, masters champion Gary Player of South Africa and youngish Doug Sanders were tied at 137, Sanders with a 66, the lowest score of the day, and Player with a 68. Three strokes back of Goalby were Don Massengale (68) Johnny Pott (67) and Jay Hebert (69).

NCAA May Compete For Track Qualifiers

Chicago (AP) — The leader of the nation's collegiate track coaches threatened Friday to hold a meet in conflict with the national AAU competition to select athletes for the U.S.-Russia dual meet this summer unless the AAU "accepts representation on the new track and field federation."

"If we are forced to a federation in opposition, without AAU representation, there would have to be two meets with the top two athletes in each event selected from them," said Chick Werner, president of the National Collegiate Track Coaches Association.

The full membership of the NCAA convention, meeting in Chicago, will endorse federations in track, basketball, and gymnastics today in the continuing struggle with the AAU.

"They would have to be held on the same day because we would have to show the AAU that they can no longer control track and field in the U.S." Werner added.

"You can imagine what kind of a tryout meet the AAU would have if the colleges, high schools and other groups that support our federation plans were competing the same day or days in the federation meet."

The U.S.-Russia meet is scheduled for Stanford University in July. Under the present system of AAU control, which the NCAA is fighting in several sports, college athletes are subject to selection by the AAU for international competition.

"This could all be prevented," Werner said after a round-table discussion, "if the AAU accepts our invitation for equal representation on the new federation."

When asked why the track coaches were taking such a step when it could damage the prestige meet with Russia, the first big international event on the U.S. athletic calendar this year, Werner said:

"At what point do we start? If we start now, it may damage the Russian meet. If we wait a year or so, it will damage the Pan-American games and the Olympics.

"There must be a point of no return. We notified the AAU of what we wanted, what our coaches favored by a 548-9 vote. They chose not to do anything, except offer us a few advisory places on committees. The AAU track and field committee is a recommending group. The voting power is all with the upper echelon, and on that they offered us one vote while the AAU would retain 10.

"We have now passed the point of no return. Either they join with us in the formation of a federation acceptable to all, or we will be forced to a federation in opposition."

Johns said plans for creation of new federations to represent the U.S. were drawn after the AAU told the NCAA after 4 fruitless meetings in the last 18 months that it intended to retain control of sports "over which it held jurisdiction." The colleges feel basketball, track and gymnastics, and several other sports are meant.

—WEST 6½-POINT PICK—

Rook Coaches Boss Pro Bowl Veterans

Los Angeles (AP) — Four rookies in the pro bowl? It sounds about normal—except that two of them are first-year men in the coaching business.

They're Allie Sherman of New York and Norm Van Brocklin of Minnesota, who'll be guiding the East and West teams Sunday in the National Football League's 12th annual all-star encounter.

The playing rookies are Pittsburgh linebacker Myron Pottios and Chicago end Mike Ditka.

Sherman was no surprise pick to coach the Easterners. His upset showing came in the regular season when he blended 5 castoffs with a perennially strong but aging Giant team and won the division championship.

West Favored

Sherman would rather forget the playoff with Green Bay — the Packers won 37-0. He's also aware that the Western Division Detroit Lions walloped Philadelphia in the Playoff Bowl and that the West is favored here by 6½ points.

But Sherman says hopefully: "It's been an overpowering year for the West, but we hope to reclaim some prestige for the East Sunday."

Van Brocklin, by contrast, won only 3 games with the Vikings — but that's 3 more than Dallas won as a first-year team in 1960. Still, says the former Ram and Eagle quarterback:

"You're darned tootin' I was surprised. I didn't have the slightest idea I'd be picked for this honor. But you don't have to coach much with a great bunch of stars like these.

Pros Learn Fast

"We sat down and drew up our offensive and defensive plans before we came out, had them copied and then just distributed them to the players. You don't have to tell them more than once. They get it the first time."

Van Brocklin is no newcomer to the Pro Bowl, however—he played in it 8 times.

Ditka, the NFL rookie of the Year, caught 56 passes good for 1,076 yards and 12 touchdowns in his first year. His size—6 feet-3, 220 pounds—prompted one workout observer to Marvel, "say, that tackle can really move."

Pottios, an ex-Notre Dame star, quickly established himself as one of the strongest linebackers in the league. At 6-2 and 240, he's the biggest linebacker on the East team.

Davis Cup Proposed One Month Earlier

Melbourne, Australia (AP)—A proposal to stage this year's Davis Cup challenge round a month earlier than usual probably will be put before the annual conference of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association Tuesday, tennis writer Alah Stewart said in the Melbourne Herald Friday.

He said several leading Australian tennis officials favor a suggestion that the challenge round be held beginning Nov. 30 instead of Christmas week.

'Kennedy Program Economic Slavery'

. . . GOP LEADERS TOLD

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Oklahoma City—The chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee Friday charged that President Kennedy's 1962 legislative program would make "economic slaves" of all Americans.

Congressman Bob Wilson of California told the GOP National Committee that the President's State of the Union message represented a pronounced and dangerous "turn to the left."

The Kennedy proposals, he said, would hand the federal government "control over what we earn, what we learn, what we produce, and what we invest."

Further, he told the cheering, partisan gathering, the program was devised by White House advisers who are members of the liberal Americans For Democratic Action.

Socialistic Program

"Their program is to socialize America," he declared.

Wilson is charged with the vital task of electing Republicans to the House of Representatives.

Forty-four more Republicans must be elected this year to give the GOP control of the House, he noted.

(In Nebraska, Republicans will lose at least one seat by virtue of Congressional re-apportionment, which cuts the state's delegation to 3 Congressmen.)

In other action, the national committee received its long-awaited report on big city politics, the working highlight of this Oklahoma conference.

Only 14 of the 41 U.S. cities of more than 300,000 gave Richard Nixon a majority in the 1960 Presidential election, thus handing national electoral victory to Kennedy.

Omaha was among the GOP cities.

Committee chairman Ray Bliss of Ohio told party leaders that adequate finances, local leadership, and additional personnel are needed to execute year-round GOP programs in metropolitan areas.

"It is not necessary for us to carry the big cities," Bliss pointed out. "We just need to reduce the Democratic margin."

"Then our out-state and suburban strength, under normal conditions, should enable us to carry the state."

Former Nebraska State Chairman Charles Thone was a member of the Bliss committee.

Earlier, GOP national chairman William Miller declared that his party is "the only answer, the only opposition left in America to the welfare state."

Pointing to Republican gains in the various off year elections, the New York Congressman said that "there is no reason whatsoever to be pessimistic about the future."

Nebraska State Chairman Robert Denney was among new state party leaders introduced to the committee by Miller.

Other Nebraskans on hand for the meeting were national committeeman Don Ross and vice-chairman Anne Batchelder, both of Omaha.

Goldwater Invited By County GOP For Fund Dinner

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) has been invited to speak at a Republican fund raising dinner to be held in Lincoln the latter part of March.

Lancaster County GOP Chairman Russell Brehm said Friday he expected to hear from Sen. Goldwater sometime next week.

In addition to Brehm's invitation, the Republican conservative has also been invited to address a University of Nebraska convocation during the present school year.

Pro-Commie Demonstrators Burn U.S. Flag And Vehicle

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — A band of youths burned the American flag and damaged a U.S. consulate vehicle Friday during a pro-Communist demonstration.

Some 25 to 30 youths demonstrated outside the consulate, then marched to the embassy. They carried placards demanding the release of a pro-Communist Dominican political leader, Maximo Lopez Molina, they said was detained by U.S. authorities at Miami, Fla.

A consulate spokesman said the United States is certain to lodge a protest over the damage to a carryall vehicle parked downtown. Large holes were burned into the front and back seats of the vehicle, apparently by a gasoline-filled bottle thrown inside.

Lopez Molina, head of the pro-Castro Dominican Popular Movement, was expelled from the country in November and his party outlawed. But many members of the party are known to have joined with the extremist wing of the left-of-center 14th of June Group in drumming up agitation against the new Dominican government, the State Council.

One of the council's first acts upon assuming office New Year's Day was to remove curbs on political demonstrations.

The demonstrators shouted "Yankee, go home" and got close to the embassy. They dispersed quickly when a police car drove up. There was no comment from embassy officials. The Charge D'affaires, John Calvin Hill Jr., was in Washington.

The flag that was burned was stolen from a school.

Work Demand Down As Low Point Neared

Demand for workers in Nebraska declined in December as the state's seasonal industries reached or approached their winter activity lows.

A report from the Employment Division of the State Labor Department showed that in December, 5,438 workers workers were placed in jobs by division offices. This compares to 6,466 in November and 4,278 in December, 1960.

On Jan. 1, 1962, 11,781 persons were registered with Nebraska state employment offices as actively seeking work, compared to 10,564 on Dec. 1, 1961, and 13,549 on Jan. 1, 1961.

Unemployment in Lincoln at the end of December was estimated at 2,150 as the labor market adjusted toward mid-winter levels.

In Omaha, 1,000 more workers were employed at year end than a year ago. Unemployment there is estimated to be 3.8% of the labor force.

AXLE LOAD HEARING SET FEB. 2

A public hearing on axle load restrictions on state highways will be held at 11 a.m., Feb. 2 in the East Senate Chamber of the State Capitol, the Department of Roads announced Friday.

The hearing concerns adoption of rules and regulations restricting axle loads on trucks using the highways — a procedure followed each spring to protect the highway surfacing from spring break-up.

Highways are weakened when frost leaves the ground, particularly those highways not designed or built to carry present-day axle loads and highways with temporary surfacing.

All roads to be restricted will be tested about the time the frost is leaving the ground to determine the safe axle loads to be carried.

After the restrictions are placed, the tests will be continued periodically to determine when the limits may be raised or lifted entirely, and information will be given from time to time as conditions change.

The restrictions usually are imposed in the latter part of February and may last until some time in May. They generally are placed first on roads in southwest and western Nebraska, then in other sections of the state as the frost leaves the ground.

Parsons College Chiefs Deny Shoplifting Is Fad

. . . THREE COEDS ARRESTED

Fairfield, Iowa (UPI) — If shoplifting is the latest fad among Parsons College coeds, college officials and police in the area are unaware of it.

"The only new fad here that I know about is the twist," College President Millard Robers said.

Dean of Students Charles Ferguson promised prompt disciplinary action against any student convicted of shoplifting.

Three Parsons coeds were arrested at nearby Ottumwa, Thursday when, police said, they were caught in the act of shoplifting. The young women admitted taking merchandise from 5 Ottumwa stores and told Ottumwa Police Chief Curtis L. Henderson "all the girls are doing it."

The coeds denied making the statement when confronted by college officials.

They said they shoplifted small items "just for kicks" and admitted operating here, in Burlington, Iowa, and their home towns, as well as at Ottumwa, Henderson said.

"It apparently was their first visit here," Henderson added.

The coeds, Jane E. Trauger, 18, River Vale, N.J.; Susan Gitlitz, 18, Tenafly, N.J., and Ann Lynn Free, 19, Dayton, Ohio, were charged with petty larceny and released on bonds pending arraignment Saturday in municipal court at Ottumwa.

RED DIPLOMAT HAS DEFECTED

Helsinki (UPI) — Scandinavian newspapers reported a Soviet diplomat and his family had defected to the West from his embassy post here. A Soviet Embassy spokesman refused to confirm or deny the reports.

The dispatches were printed in the Helsinki Sanomat and the Dagens Nyheter.

Semi-official sources in Helsinki said they believed the reports were true and that the man and his family were en route to the United States. A U.S. Embassy spokesman would say only the report "sounds very interesting."

The diplomat, believed to be a consular official, left via Stockholm more than a week ago, the sources said.

Larger Cities Accounted For Only Sixth Of Traffic Deaths

By Associated Press

Nebraska's larger cities, which contain almost half the state's population, accounted for only about one sixth of the 321 traffic fatalities in Nebraska during 1961, an Associated Press survey showed.

Of the 49 fatalities which occurred within the 20 cities covered in the survey, 30 occurred in Omaha, 9 in Lincoln and 10 in the other 18 cities. Ten of the smaller cities reported no fatalities during the year and four reported no fatalities for at least four years.

During 1960 these same cities had 44 traffic fatalities.

Alliance has not had a traffic death since 1952; York has had none since 1954; McCook hasn't had one since 1955; and Falls City hasn't had one since 1957.

Omaha's 30 fatalities during 1961 exceed by one the 1960 toll, but Lincoln's 9 fatalities hasn't been equaled since 1956 when 9 deaths also were recorded. In 1960 Lincoln had only 5 fatalities.

Lincoln and Omaha account for about one third of the state's total population.

None of these figures express the relationship of miles traveled, permissible speeds of concentration of enforcement officers. They reflect that these cities appear to be holding their own in the war against highway death.

Here is the standing of the cities surveyed for 1961, 1960 and the last previous year which showed no fatalities in either year:

		1961	1960
Kearney		0	1
Fremont	(1959)	2	2
Lincoln		9	5
Norfolk		1	2
Beatrice	(1954)	1	0
Holdrege	(1959)	0	0
Columbus	(1959)	0	0
Grand Island		2	1
York	(1954)	0	0
Sidney		0	1
Alliance	(1952)	0	0
McCook	(1955)	0	0
North Platte	(1952) (3)	1	0
Scottsbluff		1	1
Bellevue	(1941) (x)	1	0
Nebraska City		0	1
Falls City	(1957	0	0
Omaha		30	29
South Sioux City		0	1
Total		49	44

(x) Bellevue has no record of previous fatalities within the last 20 years but recollection is that one occurred about that long ago.

Sheriffs, Peace Officers To Meet

North Platte (UPI) — Some 200 guests are expected to attend the state convention here of the Nebraska Sheriffs and Peace Officers Association Jan. 14-16.

The association president, Lincoln County Sheriff George Howard, said the turnout could reach 250 with good weather.

Speakers will include John Kirby, Omaha, federal alcohol tax agent; H. D. Smith, superintendent of the Men's Reformatory; Omaha Public Safety Director Joseph E. Thornton; Thomas J. Gearty, agent-in-charge of the FBI's Omaha office, and Joseph D. Lorentzen, chief of aviation services from the Nebraska Department of Aeronautics.

Governor Morrison is tentatively scheduled to speak at the Monday morning session.

Rail Crossing Crash Claims Second Death

Hastings (AP) — A car-train crash at the Elm Street crossing in Hastings late Thursday night claimed its second life Friday.

Keith Asmus, about 22, of Hastings, died in a hospital of injuries suffered in the mishap. Killed in the crash was Robert Hohnstein, 21, also of Hastings.

Police Chief George Maul said the car was carried about 40 feet after hitting the side of a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train. The crossing is at the east edge of Hastings.

Commission Action Reversed By Court

The Nebraska Railway Commission was "arbitrary and unreasonable" when it cancelled, without notice and a hearing, previous trucking authority granted the Hargleroad Van and Storage Co. of Hastings, the State Supreme Court said Friday.

The court reversed the commission decision and ordered the case reconsidered.

Appealing were Hargleroad Bulk Carriers, Inc., and E. Dorothea and Corwin J. Hargleroad, doing business as Hargleroad Van and Storage Co.

Appellees were the Small Truckers Association; Paul Littrell; Raun Transport Corp.; Earl Houk, doing business as Western Nebraska Truck Lines; Denver-Chicago Transport Co., Inc. of Nebraska; Wheeler Transport Service, Inc., and Melton Transport Co. of Nebraska.

In other action the court dismissed an appeal to a Garfield County District Court opinion in a lease ownership action because the appeal was not made within the time limit provided by the law.

The high court said in the action that Jerry Kriewald, a Garfield County resident, had exceeded the one-month time limit when he filed notice of his appeal on May 18, 1961.

—Reversed a Dodge County District Court decision awarding the Nebraska Bottle Gas & Appliance Co., Fremont, damages from the Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., a Nebraska corporation, and remanded for a new trial.

The high court said in the opinion Friday that the lower court erred in failing to instruct the jury as to the measure of recovery to which the gas company was entitled in the case.

—Reversed itself in a Cheyenne County case in which A. B. Rapp and others were the plaintiffs, and Rapp's son, Emerald F. Rapp, and others were the defendants.

In its new opinion, the Supreme Court said that the father should have a first lien on all property covered by a mortgage given him Oct. 1, 1958, for the full amount secured thereby. Charles N. Deaver, a stockholder and director of the Sidney National Bank, the court said, should have a second lien on all that property included in his mortgage which is also included in the father's mortgage, the property being described as a sales barn.

—Ruled that Fillmore County District Court erred in sentencing Larry Lee Henggler, Omaha, to the State Reformatory on a breaking and entering charge.

The high court said that the evidence submitted in the case is not sufficient to sustain a conviction of burglary.

Evidence that a burglary was committed, together with evidence that some of the stolen property in the burglary was discovered in the possession of the defendant is not alone sufficient to prove guilt, the court said.

—Reversed and remanded a Douglas County District Court decision in an automobile accident suit awarding Irvin E. Chambers, Omaha, a new trial of the damage suit brought against him by James W. Carlson, Council Bluffs, Ia.

—Affirmed a Saunders County District Court decision in an action involving the Lincoln Equipment Company and Paul R. Eveland, both of Meadow Rock.

Power Service Conflict Stirs Up Muny League

Grand Island (AP)—The conflict over service boundaries of electric power suppliers, which has been centered in Fremont, apparently is headed for further court consideration.

A spokesman for the League of Nebraska Municipalities declared Friday the decision in the Dawson County Feed Products Co. case at Fremont is in conflict with legislative policy and the league will actively oppose any action to jeopardize the work of the public power committee created under provisions of LB 605. This committee in October accepted a subcommittee report calling for the solving of fringe area problems by negotiations.

And in Omaha, a spokesman for the Omaha Public Power District, (OPPD) defendant in the case, said OPPD expects to seek a new trial.

The statement of league policy came from Frank Phelps, Grand Island utilities commissioner, who is a member of the public power committee and of the League of Municipalities subcommittee considering electric service area problems.

In the Dawson County Feed Products case a permanent writ of mandamus was ordered by District Judge Robert Flory Tuesday. It directs OPPD to serve the new Dawson County mill now under construction at the edge of Fremont.

Dawson county brought the action against OPPD. The city of Fremont intervened and the league obtained permission to enter the case as a friend of the court. In its brief the league contended that the granting of the writ would be contrary to legislative policy.

Fremont contended that if a customer close to Fremont and to OPPD lines can compel OPPD to provide service, Fremont stands to lose 23.7% of its load—the portion of the load delivered outside its city limits.

The league contended the move would frustrate efforts to voluntarily eliminate overlapping, duplication and conflict of operation of electrical systems in the Fremont area.

"Months of negotiation and considerable expense on the part of the public power groups will be wasted if the decision is upheld," Phelps said in a statement.

"At the present time, the decision is in direct conflict with the intent of LB 605, whereby all power interests were directed to seek solutions to existing problems by voluntary means.

"Future action by the Nebraska public power committee under these conditions will be impracticable," he continued. "This set of circumstances is not in the public interest and must not be tolerated."

"Speaking on behalf of the utilities section of the League of Nebraska Municipalities, we hereby declare our intention to oppose any action which will jeopardize the work of the Nebraska public power committee," he concluded.

Diphtheria Cases Confined Mostly To Transients

Omaha (AP)—The City-County Health Department reported Friday that 10 cases of diphtheria have been diagnosed in Omaha in an outbreak which continues to be confined mostly to transients in the downtown area.

Immunization clinics have been opened at the Open Door Mission and Salvation Army.

There have been no deaths from the disease reported since one in December which alerted the department to the outbreak.

Hunting Accident Causes Injury

Robert Siefker, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Siefker of 2602 N, was reported in satisfactory condition Friday night at a local hospital following a hunting accident.

The youth's gun accidentally discharged, wounding him in the left leg.

Seaton Attacks Pressure Groups

Fremont (AP) — Fred Seaton said Friday that "Nebraskans as all Americans neither need nor want someone to lead them back to the day-before-yesterday."

"Nor do they want to be cast into the wild blue yonder, by whatever name you call it," said the Hastings Republican who is seeking the governorship. "What they do want and need is someone to help lead them safely and sensibly into a progressive tomorrow."

He criticized various pressure groups and declared, "These downhearted merchants of despair never allow a little thing such as confidence based on fact to shake their faith in discouragement."

Following the talk before Fremont service clubs Seaton and Mrs. Seaton greeted about 100 persons at a coffee hour.

Stock Market Gains Again

New York (AP)—The stock market continued to recover Friday, putting together two straight daily advances for the first time in 1962. Trading was moderately active.

It was the 3rd clear-cut stock rise of the 9 market sessions this year.

The list moved higher from the start. Sizable blocks in blue chips were traded at higher prices and it was apparent that the big institutional investors were nibbling again at issues whose prices seemed right to them. The pressure of profit taking seemed largely removed.

The continued rally was apparently based on the same factors as Thursday: namely, President Kennedy's plan for increased spending on missiles, plus the fact that there was nothing disconcerting to Wall Street in the State of the Union message. At the same time, selling to meet the Jan. 15 tax deadline had abated.

Biggest news of the day — and it came after the market close — was the well anticipated agreement to merge of the New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railroads. Central was up ⅜ and Pennsylvania ⅛ on the New York Exchange.

A number of the aerospace issues continued to advance on the Kennedy missile plans. The tone was generally higher among utilities, rails, oils, electronics, and airlines. Although motors were mostly higher, Ford was down 1¼.

Electrical equipments and steels were weak.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.06 to 711.73.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.20 to 257.60, with industrials up 1.30, rails up .50 and utilities up 1.10.

Of 1,277 issues traded, 696 advanced and 357 declined. New highs for 1961-'62 were 13 and new lows 6.

Volume was 3.73 million shares compared with 3.39 million Thursday.

A generally higher trend was displayed on the American Stock Exchange as volume rose to 1.73 million shares from 1.43 million Friday.

Corporate bonds inched higher. U.S. government bonds were mixed.

Volume of the corporate list dipped to $5.76 million par value on the exchange from $6.56 million Friday.

Grain Market Closes Even

Chicago (AP)—Grain futures prices showed some rallying tendency at times Friday on the Board of Trade but the support was a thin speculative demand which faltered near the finish and allowed the market to settle back.

The grains closed about steady, soybeans firm.

Speculators appeared to have been heartened by a slackened volume of hedge selling which had been heavy most of the week and by word that the government had boosted its price of surplus corn for export a cent a bushel.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ cent a bushel lower, March $2.04¾-⅝; corn unchanged to ¼ higher, March $1.07⅝-¾; oats ⅛-¼ higher, March 72¾; rye ⅜ higher to ⅜ lower, March $1.34⅜-½; soybeans ½-1 cent higher, January $2.43⅞-44.

Speculators expressed belief that there still is a good deal of liquidation to be worked in the wheat pit and that all bulges will be small and short lived unless some significant bullish factors develop within the next few days.

CHICAGO

Chicago (AP) — Prices of butcher hogs skidded as much as 50 cents a hundredweight Friday as the largest Friday supply in more than two years went on sale to a relatively slow demand.

Although shipper interest was described as poor, those accounts took 5,000 of the 8,500 head on sale. The $18 practical top was off $1 from the high of Wednesday. However, a very few closely sorted No. 1 grade brought an extreme top of $18.50.

The mixed No. 1s and 2s weighing 190-220 lbs. moved at $17.75-18 and the same weights of mixed 1-3 grades at $17.50-17.75. Weights up to 330 lbs. and grading No. 3 went as low as $15.50. Sows were $13-15.50.

Several loads of high choice grade slaughter steers sold at $27.75-28 for 1,225-1,300 lb. weights with that market steady. The good to average choice cleared at $24-27.

Heifers, vealers and bulls were scarce. The heifers topped at $22 for a load of mixed standard and good. The few standard vealers brought $22 and utility bulls $19.50-20.50.

Slaughter lambs grading mixed choice and prime sold at $17-18, the mixed good and choice 16.50-17 with prices steady.

Central Officials Tell Opposition To Hi-Plains

North Platte (AP) — Central Airlines concluded its opposing testimony late Friday at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing on an application by Hi-Plains Airways for a certificate to operate in 5 midwestern states.

The hearing before CAB Examiner Richard A. Walsh was recessed until Monday morning, when Frontier Airlines representatives will offer their testimony in opposition to the application.

Central Airlines proposes the same type service as does Hi-Plains to communities in Kansas and Colorado. Both firms would use twin-engine, 6-passenger aero commander planes.

Hi-Plains' wants to serve communities in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and the Dakotas as a 3rd-level carrier.

Russell L. Wageneck, Central's vice president of operations, testified as to the cost of the planes. He said the cost per plane to Central would be $100,172 against the $74,000 to Hi-Plains. The difference, Wageneck said, would be in the equipment—Central plans to fly by instrument while Hi-Plains would operate under a visual flight plan.

Chester E. Lundstrom, Central secretary and assistant treasurer, testified as to his firm's financial structure. Another Central witness, James C. Dixson, general traffic manager, told of the qualifications and training of ticket agents.

Ron Elwell, secretary of the Beloit, Kan., Chamber of Commerce, told the examiner his city has inadequate bus and rail facilities to Kansas City and Denver and said there is a need for some more rapid transportation. He endorsed Hi-Plains' application.

Earlier Friday, state aeronautics Director James Standstedt said he believes all Nebraska communities Hi-Plains wants to serve "will support and give adequate patronage to any carrier which shows a reasonable willingness to serve them."

"In my opinion all of the Nebraska communities which Hi-Plains seeks to serve desperately need airline service."

C. C. Warden, Ogallala, said Western Nebraska United Chambers of Commerce, of which he is president, favors Hi-Plains' application.

Conflicting proposals of Hi-Plains and Central Airlines for a new feeder type of air service came to the surface Friday in the hearing.

Keith Kahle, Ft. Worth, president of Central, told the hearing that Hi-Plains would be "flying on Central's back" on two segments in Kansas.

"I want to make it real clear," said Kahle, "that if Central is awarded a route in this proceeding we would expect to be reimbursed on a fair and reasonable basis for public service payments by the CAB."

C. E. Walts, Frontier president, has said he thought the service could make a go of it without federal subsidies.

Vance Rogers Enters Hospital; No Visitors

Dr. Vance Rogers, president of Wesleyan University, entered Bryan Memorial Hospital Friday morning and is expected to remain several days for observation and examination.

He was hospitalized after complaining of chest pains.

Doctors said the exact nature of the difficulty was not immediately established. They prescribed rest and quiet with no visitors.

American Weds Francoise Sagan

Paris (AP) — French novelist Francoise Sagan has married again, this time to an American artist, friends disclosed Friday. The bridegroom is James Robert Westhoff of Minneapolis.

Friends said the 26-year-old author and Westhoff, 30, went to Italy for a honeymoon after a private wedding ceremony Monday.

Documents confirmed the two were married at Barnesville, a Normandy village where Miss Sagan has a villa. The brief service was performed at the town hall by Barnesville's mayor, the Marquis of Laubespin.

MORRISON ORGANIZING MOVE TO PREVENT TRANSFER OF PARK OFFICE

Gov. Frank Morrison said Friday he is asking the aid of Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall and governors of 6 neighboring states in an effort to stop the proposed move of the National Park Service regional office from Omaha to Cheyenne, Wyo.

Morrison said he has been working for most of the past week to "obtain information on the Park Service's reasons for suggesting the move."

"We have been conferring with Rep. Glenn Cunningham and are organizing the 7 states which we believe would be adversely affected — Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, North Dakota and South Dakota, as well as Nebraska," Morrison said.

Seven Reasons

The governor outlined 7 specific reasons for his objection to the move:

—7 of the 10 states in Region II will be adversely affected from a distance and travel mobility standpoint.

—Omaha is located in the portion of Region II which comprises only ¼ of the total regional area, but represents ⅔ of the 12 million population. Residents of this area contribute a significant segment of the visitation to the national parks in the region.

—An important function of the regional office is to provide technical assistance to state, county and municipal levels of government. This obviously is most advantageous and economical when located nearest the center of the greatest population and the most seats of government.

—Another important function of the office is its study of Missouri River Basin activity, and this branch is developing advanced recreational planning on reservoirs in the basin. Since its existing location is in the heart of the basin and because these activities are only about 1-3 completed, it is very important that the office remain where it is.

—While Wyoming, Colorado and Montana have a number of national park areas, these areas are relatively self-sustaining with an operational staff which makes their proximity to the regional office of relatively minor importance.

—Cheyenne is at a grave disadvantage to Omaha in comparison of public and government-owned transportation facilities.

—Movement of the office from Omaha to Cheyenne would leave a vast segment of the United States without a regional office — from Richmond, Va. to Cheyenne — a distance of 1,300 miles.

Six Districts Joining Crete

Six Lancaster County rural school districts will be attached to the Crete district in Saline County effective July 9.

Saline County Supt. Dewey Ganzel and Lancaster County Supt. Glenn Turner have signed orders dissolving Districts 42, 70, 130, 136, 144 and 156 — all in the southwestern part of Lancaster County.

A proposal to consolidate 16 other districts in southern Lancaster County into one K-12 district will be submitted to voters in late February or early March.

President Extends Sympathies To Peru
